Mitchell, Stans May Be Facing New Indictments

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawyers for John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans say they expect the swearing-in of a jury for the conspiracy trial of the two former cabinet members to trigger new Watergate indictments, naming one or both of the defendants.

The attorneys indicated prior to the trial's opening Tuesday that Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi's decision to sequester the jury would clear the way for new criminal action in Washington once the panel is sworn in and sent into isolation.

Mitchell, 60, former attorney general, and Stans, 65, ex-commerce secretary, were indicted in the aftermath of a secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign. It later was returned. At the time, Mitchell was campaign director and Stans chief fund raiser.

The government charged that the money was paid April 10, 1972, by financier Robert L. Vesco, 37, in return for intervention on his behalf by Mitchell and Stans in a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of his corporate affairs. Vesco eventually was charged in an SEC civil suit with looting his financial empire of $224 million in stockholders' money.

Vesco was indicted with Mitchell and Stans on charges of conspiring to defraud the SEC and obstruction of federal justice. He alternately has taken refuge in Costa Rica or the Bahamas, and all efforts to bring him back for trial have failed.

Arguing prior to the trial's opening Tuesday, a lawyer for Stans, John Diuguid, said of special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski:

"The special prosecutor indicated many more indictments are coming down in Washington in the Watergate case."

Diuguid said Jaworski indicated he is waiting until a jury for the Vesco case is sequestered, a signal to the defense that Stans or Mitchell or both may be among the targets.

"I have not reached the conclusion that you must be sequestered lightly, but after serious consideration," Gagliardi told prospective jurors. He mentioned only the expected wide publicity on the trial.

A jury in isolation when outside Gagliardi's courtroom would be unlikely to learn of further government action against the defendants. Thus the government could proceed with a new prosecution without prejudicing its case here.

Diuguid's argument was in behalf of a renewed defense motion to dismiss the case, or move the trial outside New York City because of prejudicial pretrial publicity. Gagliardi took the petition under advisement, saying the test could come only during an actual attempt to select a jury.

Commissioners Authorize Study To Add Office Space

Pickaway County Commissioners Wayne Hines, Dick T. Tootle and L. Robert Liston met with John McGinnis Tuesday to discuss the need for additional office space in the courthouse.

McGinnis is a representative of Prindle, Patrick and Associates, architects and engineers.

Among the possibilities McGinnis was requested to explore were "squaring" the present courthouse and building an annex.

"This is something that should have been done years ago," according to Hines. "There is no longer enough room in the courthouse."

His statement was echoed by Dick T. Tootle, who feels that each year it is delayed the cost of construction will go up that much more.

Over ten years ago a study was made to square the courthouse but construction was not undertaken because commissioners felt there was no money available.

More recently a study was made on the feasibility of a city-county law complex to house all courts, police and sheriff's departments and jail. This project did not get off the ground because of differences between the city and county and a lack of funds.

Commissioners hope to utilize federal revenue sharing funds to provide the much-needed additional space.

In other business Tuesday, Commissioners met with representatives of National Urban Corporation to discuss the proposed annexation to the village of Ashville.

The annexation is for approximately 90 acres on the west side of the village between Routes 316 and 752.

The developers plan an $11 million commercial, industrial and residential development.

An annexation hearing is scheduled in March. Commissioners viewed a surface drainage ditch in the Brookhaven Subdivision Tuesday.

for their hearing, probably next week. Chairman Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, was able to retain order after he admonished the crowd at the outset that jeering and uninvited comments would not be tolerated.

One of the opening witnesses, John A. Burkhart, chief legal counsel for the City of Toledo, recalled that Toledo requested the state to control hand guns as early as 1967. He said he was appearing to "make my annual speech."

Burkhart said Toledo had some success with 1968 enactment of its gun control law, which resulted in removal of "at least 1,000 guns from the streets." But he said a recent upsurge in Toledo crime "has convinced me that the time has come for an outright ban."

20 States Get More Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office ordered oil companies Tuesday to send additional gasoline from their own stocks to 20 states suffering shortages in February.

The move was aimed at easing the long waiting lines at gasoline stations, but there was no way to guess how much relief it would bring.

The additional gasoline was earmarked to be added to the state set-asides for "hardship cases", to be distributed at the direction of state governors to alleviate particularly severe local gasoline shortages.

Last Feb. 9, the FEO requested that oil companies transfer up to two per cent of the gasoline allocation from ten states, and increase by as much as two per cent the allocation of 12 other states and the District of Columbia.

The FEO said Tuesday that policy still stands; but four states due for increases under both the Feb. 9 policy and Tuesday's order would get only the amount of Tuesday's order.

Here is a summary of the FEO gasoline allocation increases:

—Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon, Vermont and West Virginia: These eight states had their total February gasoline allocation increased five per cent by Tuesday's order. Three per cent of their original allocation was already set aside to aid hardship cases; the new five per cent increase is added to that hardship set-aside for use at the governors' discretion.

—New Jersey and Virginia: Last Feb. 9, these two states were designated to receive up to two per cent more gasoline in February, if the oil companies could conveniently provide it; Tuesday's order included that two per cent in a total five per cent increase and required the oil companies to provide it all. The five per cent increase was to be added to the existing state hardship set-aside of three per cent of the original supply, for use at the governors' discretion.

—Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Massachusetts, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island: The FEO order Tuesday required oil companies to send these eight states an additional two per cent on top of their original February gasoline allocations, to be added to their previous three per cent state hardship set-asides, to be distributed at the discretion of their governors.

—Illinois and Maryland: Designated last Feb. 9 to receive up to two per cent more gasoline if oil companies could conveniently provide it, these two states were assigned the full two per cent increase on a mandatory basis, to be added to their previous three per cent state hardship set-asides, for distribution at the discretion of their governors.

—Arkansas, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Kentucky, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, Texas and Tennessee: These nine jurisdictions were designated last Feb. 9 to receive additional gasoline ranging up to two per cent "to the extent practicable and considering limitation of their (oil companies') distribution systems." They remained in that position following Tuesday's order, and the FEO said it did not know how much additional gasoline they actually would receive — if any.

—Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio,

Oklahoma, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming: These ten states were designated last Feb. 9 to have their February gasoline supplies reduced anywhere up to two per cent, again "to the extent practicable and considering limitation" of company distribution systems. This, too, remained unchanged the FEO said, adding that it did not know how much gasoline, if any, was actually being transferred out of these states.

No decreases or increases to February supplies were scheduled for any other state or jurisdiction.

All together, the 20 states assigned five per cent or two per cent additions to their hardship set-asides Tuesday were to get a total of some two million additional barrels of gasoline — about 84 million additional gallons.

This would amount to a net increase of some 1.6 million barrels in addition to the two per cent increases requested last Feb. 9 for the four states appearing on both lists — Feb. 9 and Tuesday.

Hearst Food Plan Pushed

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Newspaper magnate Randolph A. Hearst says he hopes the $2 million food distribution program prompted by demands from his daughter's kidnappers can get rolling Friday and bring about her freedom.

Work on setting up the program gets under way today.

"I don't know what to expect. I only hope at this point," Hearst told reporters Tuesday at his home.

"With the $2 million, we can feed 100,000 people a month for 12 months," Hearst said in describing his "Peoples In Need" program. "And it's possible for it to become an ongoing program" for feeding California's poor.

Hearst said the program would be patterned after Washington State's "Neighbors in Need" program, which has distributed tons of food to the poor and needy since heavy heavy cutbacks at Seattle's Boeing Co. brought an unemployment crisis to that state in 1970.

Secretary of State A. Ludlow Kramer of Washington was named to administer the Hearst program.

The Symbionese Liberation Army claims responsibility for abducting Hearst's daughter Patricia from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. As a precondition for negotiating her release, the group later demanded a food giveaway by Tuesday for California's needy. Miss Hearst turns 20 today.

"The hope I have is that we'll hear from them and they'll release my daughter," declared Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

He said the program was financed by $500,000 of his money and $1.5 million from one of his family's foundations.

Walnut Creek Estates Storm Sewer Approved

Circleville Council Tuesday approved an ordinance authorizing Bowers-Goodchild Inc. to construct a storm sewer to serve the Walnut Creek Estates subdivision and nearby areas.

The storm sewer is to be installed at the expense of Bowers-Goodchild. The city is to pay $13,830 of the cost of construction, which represents the difference in the size of the storm sewer the developers proposed and that required by the city.

The storm sewer is to be installed through Hillcrest Drive, Meadow Drive, Juhl Drive, Marshall Road and County Road 511.

Recent changes in the criminal code required the city's action on legislation to provide counsel for indigents and to pay municipal court clerks overtime when they are called in after regular court hours to issue warrants of arrest.

The new criminal code requires the city to provide legal counsel for indigents in all cases prosecuted under city ordinances. The proper legislation was approved by city council to provide for the compensation of legal counsel municipal court action.

The council also authorized the clerk or deputy clerk be paid $15 for the first time called to issue a warrant after the regular hours of the court and $7.50 for each additional re-call within the same time period. A total of $500 was transferred from the general fund to the proper account in the municipal court funds.

Council also took the initial step to negotiate for easements, work agreements and quit claim deeds for the proposed Nicholas Drive Improvement Project. Issue 1 funds will be used to finance construction costs, but the city is to pay engineering and right of way costs.

The ordinance passed Tuesday authorizes the service director to negotiate the deeds, easements and work agreements with property owners along Nicholas Drive.

An ordinance passed July 28, 1970 concerning allocations of funds from the income tax fund was amended. Wording of the ordinance was changed from "funds collected under the provision of the income tax ordinance shall be deposited to the general fund" to "funds collected under the provisions of the income tax ordinance to be deposited to the income tax revenue fund." Councilman David Goldschmidt said the funds have always been deposited to the income tax revenue fund and this change corrects the mistake in wording that was recently discovered.

A routine ordinance authorizing the service director to advertise for bids for materials for street repair including bituminous and aggregate materials was approved. This is a standard ordinance passed every year by council according to David Crawford, chairman of the service committee of city council.

An ordinance authorizing the levying of assessments for the improvement of Watt St. by constructing curbs and gutters in 1972 was held for a second reading.

The cost to be assessed to the property owners involved is $3.71 per front foot of their lot size. The assessment may be paid within 30 days to the city treasurer or at the property owners request may be certified to the county auditor to be paid in five installments when property taxes are paid.

Present at council meeting were: Goldschmidt, Crawford, Ben Gordon, Tom Wells, John Jenkins, Harold Hoffman and Dixie Waters, councilmen; Joe Bell, president; Robert Shadley, clerk; Mayor Frank Barnhill; city solicitors William Stevens and William Duckworth.

See Northwest Ohio Black Market

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A black market in gasoline exists at least in northwestern Ohio for industries which can't fill their needs through regular channels.

An official at one steel company confirmed the firm buys gasoline through a black market. Spokesmen at two others said they had adequate supplies, but balked at questions about its source. They denied making questionable purchases.

A Toledo area service station dealer estimated 70 per cent of area service stations are selling to industry at inflated prices.

"You can buy all the gas you want if you want to pay the price," said a steel company spokesman. "You don't ask questions, you just buy your gasoline to keep the plant operating."

"It all boils down to a black market," he said.

The spokesman said the purchases began last fall after suppliers said they would not be able to fill the tanks of company trucks. The company told drivers of possible layoffs.

"The next day we had all the fuel we wanted," he said. "We didn't quibble about price, we just paid the bill."

He said the gasoline sold for 125 to 200 per cent over the regular price.

"I want to keep my operation going," he said. "I have 300 people here and they all have families. The cost factor of shutting a plant down is a lot more significant than paying a little more for gasoline."

Spokesmen at Republic Steel in Cleveland and Armco Steel in Middletown said they have no problems getting gasoline. But they said they weren't privy to information about a possible black market.

Lou Vicarel of Republic said the company has adequate supplies of gasoline and diesel, even though it is operating under allocations based on 1972 usage.

Don Easterly of Armco said the firm was "in pretty good shape" as far as fuel supplies.

Neither would disclose what the firms are paying for their gasoline, and both denied making questionable purchases.

One Toledo service station dealer estimated 70 per cent of the area dealers are selling part of their allocations to industries at inflated prices.

Neither bill actually suggests such a search.

Benson A. Wolman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, said he thinks the idea of banning Saturday night specials alone "is not a sufficient approach to the problem ... it is little more than a political pacifier promoted by some gun lobbies to detract attention from the absence of controls over firearms."

He said the ACLU favors legislation requiring that the applicant for any gun license demonstrate that he has knowledge regarding a gun's use, "a short test similar to that given for cars and motorcycles." He further said the law should require "the registration of all firearms and the licensing of all owners, dealers, and users."

It started Tuesday night in the committee which asked for testimony on a pair of measures, one to place an outright ban on hand guns, and another to prohibit cheap weapons described as "Saturday night specials."

Although the hearing was to be for proponents, most of some 150 persons who jammed into the small room were notetaking, obviously skeptical, opponents.

Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, said he has been advised that opponents of the controversial legislation in his district already have chartered a bus to come to Columbus

The Toledo official said that while the city ordinance has enabled records to be kept of weapons sold inside its borders "all anyone has to do to get a hand gun is go to some discount house outside the city limits." Toledo's ordinance requires anyone wanting a hand gun to apply for a owner's card, which contains the owner's photograph, but it is not issued until an investigation is made of the applicant.

Burkhart said he favors the proposed constitutional resolution before the committee that calls for an outright ban against the manufacture, sale, or possession of handguns. That particular proposal would go before the voters in a statewide election.

Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, is sponsor of the proposed constitutional resolution. He cited Federal Bureau of Investigation statistics for 1972 showing that 82 per cent of all murders in the U.S. were committed with hand guns.

He also asserted that if, in the commission of those crimes, "someone would have turned to a knife instead, there would have been 80 per cent fewer deaths."

Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, is sponsor of the bill to ban Saturday night specials, defined as those inexpensive weapons which melt or warp at a temperature of 800 degrees Fahrenheit or more. "This is a limited bill," he said, "but I believe it might be the most reasonable. I don't think there is any way we are going to be able to control possession. A massive statewide search in Ohio just isn't realistic."

Neither bill actually suggests such a search.

Benson A. Wolman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, said he thinks the idea of banning Saturday night specials alone "is not a sufficient approach to the problem ... it is little more than a political pacifier promoted by some gun lobbies to detract attention from the absence of controls over firearms."

He said the ACLU favors legislation requiring that the applicant for any gun license demonstrate that he has knowledge regarding a gun's use, "a short test similar to that given for cars and motorcycles." He further said the law should require "the registration of all firearms and the licensing of all owners, dealers, and users."

Balloonist Now Heads For Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Alexandria, Va., man trying to be the first to fly a balloon from America to Europe may become the first to make the trip from America to Africa instead.

The National Weather Service reported that Thomas Gatch Jr. was being pushed far to the south of his planned course by upper air jet streams.

"We estimate that he will reach the African coast somewhere near Dakar, Senegal" Wednesday afternoon, said the weather service.

Gatch took off from Harrisburg, Pa., Monday night and originally planned to land either in France or Spain.

He was spotted about noon Tuesday by Iberian Airlines about 1,300 miles north-northeast of Puerto Rico, according to the Air Transport Association.

Gatch is traveling in a sealed gondola suspended beneath nine helium-filled balloons. He started with 10 balloons, but one burst shortly after takeoff. That mishap lowered his altitude from the planned 39,000 feet to 35,500, but spokesmen said the trip can still be made safely.

An electrical short between the living room and kitchen walls was believed to have been the cause of the fire. The blaze spread upward to the bedrooms of the two-story wood-framed structure.

The house, owned by Adrian Ater, Chillicothe, was a total loss, with extensive damage to contents.

'Scenic River' Explained To County Planning Unit

Ed Hammett, of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, attended the Pickaway County Planning Commission meeting Tuesday to answer questions concerning the proposed scenic river designation for Big Darby Creek.

Hammett pointed out the stream meets all criteria for the designation which has the purpose of maintaining the natural state of the stream.

Big Darby has 78 different species of fish, more than any other creek or river in the state according to Hammett.

He emphasized there will be no change of the private property rights of those who own land along the stream. It does not mean the stream will be opened up for public recreation use according to Hammett.

The department of natural resources will meet with township trustees and Pickaway County Commissioners to further discuss the scenic river designation.

There will be no restriction on private buildings or homes except those of the zoning regulations of the townships. There will be no controls on the use of the adjacent land or stream bank except that the stream be maintained in its natural state.

The Pickaway County Planning Commission has recommended the Scenic River Designation for the stream, according to Ned Harden, commission chairman.

Wayne Henry; Jim Shea, program chairman; Wilfred "Bud" Goodwin, FBI Agent, Columbus; Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff; Circleville Chief of Police Bob Temple.

The Circleville Kiwanis Club met 6:30 p.m. Monday at the Pickaway Arms with Fred Bower, president, presiding.

Speaking on the topic 'How Law Enforcement Has Improved in Recent Years' was Wilfred "Bud" Goodwin, FBI agent in charge of the Columbus office. Goodwin received a BS in Business Administration in 1948 and a Bachelor of Law in 1950 from Ohio State University. He has been with the FBI since 1950.

Circleville Chief of Police Bob Temple, Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Highway Patrol Lt. Wayne Henry were guests of the club receiving certificates for their fight against crime.

Local enforcement officers are now receiving 240 hours of basic training to better able them to meet all kinds of responsibilities.

Officers must investigate accidents, assist in child birth, help in drowning incidents, know criminal law, investigate or stop robberies, and inform survivors of death in the family.

The National Criminal Information System is now available to all law enforcement agencies, which is a computer system used to store information concerning crimes. The computer system, better training of officers and money received from the Federal Government has helped fight crime which is responsible for the decrease in crime in America.

Designated as law enforcement night, 35 officers of the Police Department, Sheriff's Department and Highway Patrol were present at the meeting.

A $500 check was presented to Harold Hewitt, director of the YMCA to assist in operating the local Y. The presentation was made by John Raterman.

Kiwanis members were reminded of the District Bowling meet March 16.

Balloonist Now Heads For Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Alexandria, Va., man trying to be the first to fly a balloon from America to Europe may become the first to make the trip from America to Africa instead.

The National Weather Service reported that Thomas Gatch Jr. was being pushed far to the south of his planned course by upper air jet streams.

"We estimate that he will reach the African coast somewhere near Dakar, Senegal" Wednesday afternoon, said the weather service.

Gatch took off from Harrisburg, Pa., Monday night and originally planned to land either in France or Spain.

He was spotted about noon Tuesday by Iberian Airlines about 1,300 miles north-northeast of Puerto Rico, according to the Air Transport Association.

Gatch is traveling in a sealed gondola suspended beneath nine helium-filled balloons. He started with 10 balloons, but one burst shortly after takeoff. That mishap lowered his altitude from the planned 39,000 feet to 35,500, but spokesmen said the trip can still be made safely.

'Scenic River' Explained To County Planning Unit

Ed Hammett, of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, attended the Pickaway County Planning Commission meeting Tuesday to answer questions concerning the proposed scenic river designation for Big Darby Creek.

Hammett pointed out the stream meets all criteria for the designation which has the purpose of maintaining the natural state of the stream.

Big Darby has 78 different species of fish, more than any other creek or river in the state according to Hammett.

He emphasized there will be no change of the private property rights of those who own land along the stream. It does not mean the stream will be opened up for public recreation use according to Hammett.

The department of natural resources will meet with township trustees and Pickaway County Commissioners to further discuss the scenic river designation.

There will be no restriction on private buildings or homes except those of the zoning regulations of the townships. There will be no controls on the use of the adjacent land or stream bank except that the stream be maintained in its natural state.

The Pickaway County Planning Commission has recommended the Scenic River Designation for the stream, according to Ned Harden, commission chairman.

Farmers As Heroes

With the focus on food as a commodity which can save the world from chaos, the farmer's role in the economy has become vastly more important than it was in the past.

People have a penchant for making heroes out of persons whose services are essential to the national interest. Few persons thought of casting the farmer in the role of a hero during the long period of crop surpluses. But his economic role has become vastly important now that American farm production has become indispensable to the whole world.

Campy's Story

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

your screen.

One of the puzzles of the age is the official commotion the Nixon and Brezhnev administrations raises over two leaks — Ellsberg's Pentagon Papers and Solzhenitsyn's "The Gulag Archipelago."

The President's reaction to the publication of the Pentagon Papers was the reaction of a Chief Executive who believed his Administration had been dealt a blow from which it might never recover. The fact of the matter was that the contents of the Papers had to do with the bunglings, goofs, miscalculations and excessive military responses of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. One would suppose that Nixon would have simply said "See?" and point with pride to the efforts he was making at the time to get the U.S. out of its predicament in Indochina. Instead, his top aide Ehrlichman dangled an enticing political plum in front of the judge in the Ellsberg case, and a platoon of White House plumbers outrageously broke into the offices of Ellsberg's shrink in search of evidence.

"The Gulag Archipelago" concerns a period of subhuman treatment of prisoners by the regime of Joseph Stalin. Stalin's despotism makes Leonid Brezhnev look like a benefactor of mankind, a leader enthusiastically engaged in improving relations with much of the world. But it is Brezhnev who has been behind the hounding of the Nobel Prize Winner, Brezhnev who has driven him away from the land he loves.

It's nutty.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Following is a letter I received from United States Senator Henry M. Jackson which he wrote in response to a letter to the editor recently published in The Herald.

ELIAS JOHN GEORGE
163 W. Union St.

Dear Mr. George:

Thank you for forwarding to me a copy of the editorial which you prepared regarding the role of Congress in the energy crisis.

I agree with you that Congress has a duty to secure the facts behind the energy shortage and to find workable solutions to the many problems arising from it.

For almost three years the Senate Interior Committee, of which I am the Chairman, has been conducting the Senate's National Fuels and Energy Policy Study. This effort has laid the foundation for the broad legislative program now before the Congress, confronting both the immediate and long-term problems.

Also, as Chairman of the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, I am conducting a continuing investigation of the oil companies and their compliance with price control laws and fuel allocation in the present shortage situation. The recent performance of these companies proves that they must be held to much higher accountability to the American people.

I share your concern over the effect of the fuel shortage on unemployment and strongly feel that no one industry or segment of the population should be forced to suffer an unreasonable hardship. In an attempt to roll back the rising energy prices, which have contributed to many lay-offs, I have introduced S. 2885. This legislation establishes ceiling prices on petroleum and related goods. In addition, I have proposed an amendment to the National Energy Emergency Act, which would provide compensation for those who lose their jobs as a result of the fuel shortage. This amendment was approved yesterday by the joint Conference Committee currently meeting on this legislation.

I appreciate your making your views

known to me and can assure you that I will continue to seek responsible answers to our nation's energy needs.

Sincerely yours,
HENRY M. JACKSON

Court Action Opens In State Loan Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Court action began Tuesday against two former state officials who were charged in 1972 with illegally lending state money.

Judge Jack Young of Coshocton is presiding in Franklin County Common Pleas Court in the trial against former Ohio Treasurer John Herbert and a former investment officer Robert Gardner.

The state contends the two did not assure sufficient safeguards before lending money in 1970 to Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, Inc., and to King Resources, Inc., of Denver.

Both firms went into bankruptcy proceedings in 1970.

Fuel Bill Savings Reported For State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Emergency Energy Management Board set up by the governor has issued a report listing fuel bill savings as a result of conservation efforts by state employees.

The report said downtown state government buildings, including the capitol, saved $24,000 in electricity last December compared to the year before.

It also listed savings for various agencies in fuel oil, natural gas and steam.

The governor last December ordered all state offices to lower thermostat, turn off unnecessary lights and use car pools.

Shooting records still in existence show that there was a target-shooting club in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1474. In Germany numerous clubs held regular tournaments as far back as the 16th century.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 20, the 51st day of 1974. There are 314 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth. After being launched from Cape Canaveral, he circled the earth three times and made a safe landing in the Atlantic.

On this date:

In 1437, King James I of Scotland was murdered in the Scottish city of Perth.

In 1792, President George Washington signed an act creating the U.S. Post Office.

In 1809, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the power of the federal government is greater than that of any individual state.

In 1895, a revolt against the Spanish broke out in Cuba.

In 1938, Anthony Eden resigned as British foreign secretary, charging Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain with appeasement of Nazi Germany.

In 1972, President Nixon arrived in Peking for a historic meeting with officials of Communist China.

Ten years ago: Morocco and Algeria signed an accord to end a border conflict that had resulted in troop clashes.

Five years ago: President Nixon asked Congress for a constitutional amendment that would permit the selection of a president who had one as little as 40 per cent of the electoral vote.

One year ago: The government of Laos and the Communist-led Pathet Lao agreed on a pact to end warfare.

Today's birthdays: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin is 70. Indonesian President Suharto is 53. Socialite Gloria Vanderbilt is 50.

Thought for today: A man is a lion in his own cause — Scottish proverb.

Peru To Pay U.S. Firms $13 Million

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government is going to pay United States companies about $130 million for assets it expropriated in the past five years, informed sources say.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said a compensation agreement would be signed today in Lima by Foreign Minister Miguel Angel de la Flor and James Greene, New York banker and special envoy from President Nixon. The amount of money was not announced.

The sources said Peru's payments would be financed by a loan, probably repayable over 10 years, from the First National City Bank of New York, the Chemical Bank and the First National Bank of Boston.

The properties are six mines owned by Cerro Corp.; a chemical plant, a paper pulp factory and two sugar estates owned by W. R. Grace & Co.; a Morrison Knudsen construction firm; and six fishmeal plants belonging to International Proteins, Starkist, Heinz, Cargill, General Mills and Goldkist, the sources said.

Two oilfields and a petroleum refinery operated by Exxon's International Petroleum Co. were nationalized five years ago, but the agreement does not include them. The government recognized that the oil properties had a book value of about $100 million but claimed the company had been exploiting the fields illegally for 40 years and refused to pay compensation.

Efforts To End Strike At Tappan Continue

MANFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Efforts to end a week-old strike at the Tappan Co. plant here were to resume today. Company officials and representatives of the Independent Stove Workers Union were scheduled to resume talks on a new contract.

Dear Miss R.: There does not seem to be any hereditary tendency toward this condition. It is more likely that coincidence was responsible for this occurrence in your family.

I am glad you express this anxiety so that you can feel assured. Many other young women might hesitate to verbalize their fear and would live constantly with this threat.

Tubal pregnancies occur in about one out of 500 cases, which makes it comparatively rare. Almost always, these pregnancies terminate about the fourth or the fifth week.

A tubal, or ectopic, pregnancy is one in which the egg, fertilized by the male sperm, is trapped in the tiny Fallopian tube. Instead of passing through this tube and becoming embedded in the lining of the womb, the fertilized egg remains in the tube and is unable to develop properly.

The cause is usually a narrowing of the Fallopian tube because of some previous infection or inflammation.

State Banks Use Loopholes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio banks have found loopholes in the state law setting an 8 per cent ceiling on interest rates, according to Ohio Banking Supt. Steve Kohn.

Kohn said the century-old limitation is a barrier to profits by some banks and, as a result, some are taking advantage of loopholes in usury laws to widen their profit margin.

The State Commerce Department is not yet sure whether these loopholes are legal.

Kohn said one area that is being watched closely is the "add on" method of computing interest on real estate loans. The practice, which is used in some other states, allows exorbitant finance charges on mortgages and land sales.

"We're aware of the practice and we're trying to decide whether it's legitimate or not," Kohn said.

Assistant bank examiner Harold Mullen says some banks have raised their simple interest rate beyond the 8 per cent level in order to make a profit. Mullen said the division is waiting for a clarification of the statute before pressing the issue.

Under federal law, national banks are not bound by the state usury limit. They are allowed to set their interest rates according to those set by savings and loan companies in the states.

Another federal law allows national banks to charge a full 1 per cent over the going discount rate of 7.5 per cent.

State banks complain the statute gives national banks an unfair advantage. Kohn points out that consumers also suffer under the restriction.

"People are being denied mortgage loans at state banks simply because the banks cannot make a profit at 8 per cent," Kohn said.

Kohn said the growing complexity of banking regulations and current economic pressures have caused widespread bending, if not breaking, of state lending laws.

Farmers As Heroes

With the focus on food as a commodity which can save the world from chaos, the farmer's role in the economy has become vastly more important than it was in the past.

Campy's Story

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Drop what you've scheduled for this Friday night between nine and eleven and watch CBS's "GE Theater" special, "It's Good to Be Alive." It's the story of Brooklyn Dodgers star catcher Roy Campanella, the half-Italian, half-Negro ballplayer who was three times the National League's Most Valuable Player.

You'll never forget it. Campy's plaque in Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown N. J., reads: "Roy Campanella was superb handler of pitchers, great fielder and fine hitter, both for power and average. Roly-poly catcher was like cat behind bat, quick and agile, and owned rifle arm. Natural leader, he survived startling assortment of injuries to achieve stardom, then saw auto accident abruptly halt career. Campy stroked 30 or more homers four times compiling 10-year total of 242. Round Roy's biggest season came in 1953, when he walloped 41 home runs, led loop with 142 RBI's, and hit .312 to earn second of three MVP awards. Jolly Dodger catcher, who enjoyed popularity second to none, was only 36 and seemingly indestructible when auto mishap in January 1958 left him partially paralyzed, ending his playing days."

The biographer of Campy's plaque should be hanged for understatement.

"It's Good to Be Alive" is the most poignant sports film ever screened, emotionally touching theatrical realms beyond the accounts of Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth, Monte Stratton, and Budd Schulberg's thinly venerated story of Primo Carneri, "The Harder They Fall." Only Brian Piccolo's story in "Brian's Song" can compare. Paul Winfield, who plays Campy, is truer to the role than Gary Cooper was to Gehrig and Bill Bendix to Ruth. After one forgets that Winfield resembles Elston Howard more than he does Campanella, he is Campanella fore and aft, in voice, style, bitterness, warmth and resurrection from utter despair. And on guesses that no athlete, or any other person for that matter, ever had the ministrations and friendship of a man like Lou Gossett, who plays the role of Sam Brockington, the physical therapist assigned to Campy by Dr. Howard Rus, a real-life man who restoreth broken men's bodies and souls.

There is one scene in "It's Good to Be Alive" that will chill you more than the fuel shortage: Campy, who was one of the strongest men in baseball, immobilized in his hospital bed, dead from the neck down. He has chased out his wife—played wonderfully by the gifted actress Ruby Dee—and his faithful attendant. All he wants to be is alone. He lies there for a time, and then there comes a curious buzzing on the sound track. It gets a bit louder and then louder, and suddenly the viewer realizes that there's a fly in the room... and, sooner or later, it is going to alight on the only part of him exposed, his face. There will be no way for him to brush the fly away. He starts to sweat like a man facing a firing squad.

Well, we won't tell you how that turns out, except to say that nothing quite as frustrating has ever been on

People have a penchant for making heroes out of persons whose services are essential to the national interest. Few persons thought of casting the farmer in the role of a hero during the long period of crop surpluses.

But his economic role has become vastly important now that American farm production has become indispensable to the whole world.

One of the puzzlements of the age is the official commotion the Nixon and Brezhnev administrations raises over two leaks — Ellsberg's Pentagon Papers and Solzhenitsyn's "The Gulag Archipelago."

The President's reaction to the publication of the Pentagon Papers was the reaction of a Chief Executive who believed his Administration had been dealt a blow from which it might never recover. The fact of the matter was that the contents of the Papers had to do with the bunglings, goofs, miscalculations and excessive military responses of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. One would suppose that Nixon would have simply said "See?" and point with pride to the efforts he was making at the time to get the U.S. out of its predicament in Indochina. Instead, his top aide Ehrlichman dangled an enticing political plum in front of the judge in the Ellsberg case, and a platoon of White House plumbers outrageously broke into the offices of Ellsberg's shrink in search of evidence.

"The Gulag Archipelago" concerns a period of subhuman treatment of prisoners by the regime of Joseph Stalin. Stalin's despotism makes Leonid Brezhnev look like a benefactor of mankind, a leader enthusiastically engaged in improving relations with much of the world. But it is Brezhnev who has been behind the hounding of the Nobel Prize Winner, Brezhnev who has driven him away from the land he loves.

It's nutty.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Following is a letter I received from United States Senator Henry M. Jackson which he wrote in response to a letter to the editor recently published in The Herald.

ELIAS JOHN GEORGE
163 W. Union St.

Dear Mr. George:

Thank you for forwarding to me a copy of the editorial which you prepared regarding the role of Congress in the energy crisis.

I agree with you that Congress has a duty to secure the facts behind the energy shortage and to find workable solutions to the many problems arising from it.

For almost three years the Senate Interior Committee, of which I am the Chairman, has been conducting the Senate's National Fuels and Energy Policy Study. This effort has laid the foundation for the broad legislative program now before the Congress, confronting both the immediate and long-term problems.

Also, as Chairman of the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, I am conducting a continuing investigation of the oil companies and their compliance with price control laws and fuel allocation in the present shortage situation. The recent performance of these companies proves that they must be held to much higher accountability to the American people.

I share your concern over the effect of the fuel shortage on unemployment and strongly feel that no one industry or segment of the population should be forced to suffer an unreasonable hardship. In an attempt to roll back the rising energy prices, which have contributed to many lay-offs, I have introduced S. 2885. This legislation establishes ceiling prices on petroleum and related goods. In addition, I have proposed an amendment to the National Energy Emergency Act, which would provide compensation for those who lose their jobs as a result of the fuel shortage. This amendment was approved yesterday by the joint Conference Committee currently meeting on this legislation.

I appreciate your making your views

known to me and can assure you that I will continue to seek responsible answers to our nation's energy needs.

Sincerely yours,
HENRY M. JACKSON

Court Action Opens In State Loan Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Court action began Tuesday against two former state officials who were charged in 1972 with illegally lending state money.

Judge Jack Young of Coshocton is presiding in Franklin County Common Pleas Court in the trial against former Ohio Treasurer John Herbert and a former investment officer Robert Gardner.

The state contends the two did not assure sufficient safeguards before lending money in 1970 to Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, Inc., and to King Resources, Inc., of Denver.

Both firms went into bankruptcy proceedings in 1970.

Fuel Bill Savings Reported For State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Emergency Energy Management Board set up by the governor has issued a report listing fuel bill savings as a result of conservation efforts by state employees.

The report said downtown state government buildings, including the capitol, saved $24,000 in electricity last December compared to the year before.

It also listed savings for various agencies in fuel oil, natural gas and steam.

The governor last December ordered all state offices to lower thermostat, turn off unnecessary lights and use car pools.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 20, the 51st day of 1974. There are 314 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth. After being launched from Cape Canaveral, he circled the earth three times and made a safe landing in the Atlantic.

On this date:

In 1437, King James I of Scotland was murdered in the Scottish city of Perth.

In 1792, President George Washington signed an act creating the U.S. Post Office.

In 1809, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the power of the federal government is greater than that of any individual state.

In 1895, a revolt against the Spanish broke out in Cuba.

In 1938, Anthony Eden resigned as British foreign secretary, charging Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain with appeasement of Nazi Germany.

In 1972, President Nixon arrived in Peking for a historic meeting with officials of Communist China.

Ten years ago: Morocco and Algeria signed an accord to end a border conflict that had resulted in troop clashes.

Five years ago: President Nixon asked Congress for a constitutional amendment that would permit the selection of a president who had one as little as 40 per cent of the electoral vote.

One year ago: The government of Laos and the Communist-led Pathet Lao agreed on a pact to end warfare.

Today's birthdays: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin is 70. Indonesian President Suharto is 53. Socialite Gloria Vanderbilt is 50.

Thought for today: A man is a lion in his own cause — Scottish proverb.

Peru To Pay U.S. Firms $13 Million

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government is going to pay United States companies about $130 million for assets it expropriated in the past five years, informed sources say.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said a compensation agreement would be signed today in Lima by Foreign Minister Miguel Angel de la Flor and James Greene, New York banker and special envoy from President Nixon. The amount of money was not announced.

The sources said Peru's payments would be financed by a loan, probably repayable over 10 years, from the First National City Bank of New York, the Chemical Bank and the First National Bank of Boston.

The properties are six mines owned by Cerro Corp.; a chemical plant, a paper pulp factory and two sugar estates owned by W. R. Grace & Co.; a Morrison Knudsen construction firm; and six fishmeal plants belonging to International Proteins, Starkist, Heinz, Cargill, General Mills and Goldkist, the sources said.

Two oilfields and a petroleum refinery operated by Exxon's International Petroleum Co. were nationalized five years ago, but the agreement does not include them. The government recognized that the oil properties had a book value of about $100 million but claimed the company had been exploiting the fields illegally for 40 years and refused to pay compensation.

Efforts To End Strike At Tappan Continue

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Efforts to end a week-old strike at the Tappan Co. plant here were to resume today.

Company officials and representatives of the Independent Stove Workers Union were scheduled to resume talks on a new contract.

The firm's 800 workers walked off the job last Wednesday.

Rare Disease Hits In Cincinnati Area

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — When Alonzo Wade, 13, of Springfield, recently became ill, his mother was worried he had the flu.

If stricken again, she hopes it's no more than the flu.

The boy is recovering from two blood exchanges needed to stave off Reye's Syndrome, a rare disease which has suddenly surfaced in the area. Nine cases have been reported in the area since Feb. 9.

The disease mysteriously strikes children. Its symptoms resemble an attack of flu. It causes heavy vomiting, delirium and death if not treated.

"I'll be afraid everytime they say there's flu," said Mrs. Leon Wade.

Her son was hurried to Cincinnati Children's Hospital when Alonzo's "cold" was accompanied by extreme vomiting, delirium and unconsciousness.

He was reported conscious and in satisfactory condition Tuesday.

The outbreak of the disease has physicians concerned. A number of areas around the nation report an upswing.

A Cincinnati pediatrician says blood exchanges have proven the only successful step to combat the disease. The illness causes brain swelling, fatty deposits in the liver and an increased ammonia level in the blood. So far, no methods have been discovered to determine susceptibility to the disease.

It may be transmitted by a virus, the doctor said.

Snow Hits New England And Rockies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snow whitened the northern and central Rockies and interior New England today, and rain splashed into a large part of the Northeast.

Clear skies and seasonal temperatures favored a broad stretch of the midcontinent between the storm regions.

Heavy snow plastered northern New England, piling up to 6 inches in sections of Maine and Vermont. In the West, parts of Colorado and Utah were coated by up to 3 inches overnight in a general snow that ranged from northern Arizona to Montana.

Travel advisories were in effect for New Mexico and eastern Colorado as the snow swirled eastward.

Rain and drizzle extended from the central Appalachians to the Eastern Seaboard and southern New England. Nearly an inch soaked Portland, Maine, during the night.

Unseasonably mild weather held temperatures in the 40s and 50s overnight in the central Plains and along the Middle Atlantic Coast.

Playboy Press Buys Agnew Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's literary agent says a novel now being written by Agnew will be published by Playboy Press.

Scott Meredith, the agent, said publication is tentatively set for early 1975.

Meredith said Agnew would be paid more than $50,000 but less than $250,000 for the novel, said to be a story of international political intrigue involving a vice president of the United States.

Glenn Bares Financial Worth

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Former astronaut John Glenn, who is running for the U.S. Senate, issued a statement of his financial worth Monday saying it is so complete that every penny he has made since 1965, including $100 he was paid for being on the Johnny Carson show, is accounted for.

Glenn issued a 183-page report which listed his net worth at $767,800. He said he would forward the report to the Ohio Ethics Commission.

"There is nothing else I can report," Glenn said in a statement. "It is complete and open. To the best of my knowledge, it is the first time in the history of this state and nation that any candidate for major office has made such a complete financial disclosure."

Glenn said that Sen. Howard Metzenbaum's financial statement issued 10 days ago "is like the difference between edited summaries of the Watergate tapes and the tapes themselves."

Metzenbaum is Glenn's opponent in the race for the Democratic Senate nomination.

Glenn said the main issue in the Senate campaign "is the integrity of our government officials. Democrats are looking for someone they can look up to—someone they know as honest enough and dedicated enough to public service to get our nation moving again..."

Metzenbaum was not available for comment, but his campaign manager, James J. Schiller, said he was glad that Glenn made the statement but added, "Glenn achieved his wealth over less than 10 years by capitalizing on his service as an astronaut."

"Metzenbaum rose up from poverty through the business world over a 40-year span," Schiller said.

Glenn reported income between 1965-72 totaling $1.12 million and said he paid more than $353,000 in federal income taxes during the period.

Between 1960 and 1964, when Glenn was an astronaut and in the U.S. Marine Corps., he paid taxes of $43,723 on income of $112,992, the report said.

The disclosure statement listed bank accounts totaling $51,300, stocks totaling $668,000 and $130,000 in business investments. His home was valued at $142,400. Liabilities amounted to $324,400, including $44,200 in 1973 income taxes payable and $90,900 in real estate investments.

The candidate said he owns $375,000 in Royal Crown Cola stock, holds $94,954 in the L.D. Edie Capital Fund, and has 1,000 shares of Hughes Tool Co. stock, worth $85,000.

In addition, the report says, he has $25,000 invested in Congress Gardens, a Washington, D.C., apartment complex, $43,000 in Interstate Resort Corp., and $30,000 in Quinn, Glenn and Landwirth, a partnership which owns Holiday Inn hotels in Florida.

White House Defenses Re-Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The weekend crash landing of a stolen helicopter on the White House lawn has brought a review of ways to remedy the executive mansion's vulnerability to aerial attack.

But officials expressed doubt that, short of a costly and obtrusive anti-aircraft defense, much more can be done to protect the President's home against surprise assault by helicopter or airplane.

"What can you do?" said one White House aide in discussing the weekend incident. "There's no way you can stop it. Anytime anybody wants to..."

In the early morning hours Sunday, an unarmed helicopter stolen from Ft.

Meade, Md., violated the restricted airspace over the White House, but quickly buzzed away, before the handful of security guards on duty could react.

An hour later, pursued by a Maryland State Police helicopter and tracked by military radar, it returned to the White House. This time it was pelted by automatic weapon and shot-gun fire and bounced to a rough landing 100 yards from the virtually vacant mansion.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that after any such incident officials charged with protecting the President "re-evaluate their procedures."

Problems stem from a little white lie when Tommy Briggs tells his boss he is married in order to get a promotion and later acquires an offspring when the company offers a $500 bonus to new fathers.

Friends from all over the apartment building come up with wives and babies for Tommy when the boss comes to town to meet the "family". The name of the game starts when the maid receives orders to take anything placed on the chair to the cleaners and takes her orders literally.

A young lady named Natalie comes to visit a friend and mistakenly gets into Tommy's apartment, readies for a shower and leaves her clothes on the chair. The boss comes to the apartment for a shower because the hotel is booked until later in the day and he too, leaves his clothes on the chair.

As the play continues the hoax gets more complicated and even one of Tommy's college friends Jimmy, played by Jeff Meredith dresses up like a wife to fool the boss.

Starring in the lead roll is Robert Nesbit who celebrates his 50th show with the play in the dinner theatre just outside London. Natalie is played by Janel Van Etten who has a remarkable history in the acting profession. The boss, Juniper J. Juniper, is played by Sid Lawson. Lawson has a bachelor of fine arts degree from Boston Conservatory of Music and also has a history in the theatre.

The cast is completed with Lynn Treveal as the maid, Christopher Boyd

Rare Disease Hits In Cincinnati Area

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — When Alonzo Wade, 13, of Springfield, recently became ill, his mother was worried he had the flu.

If stricken again, she hopes it's no more than the flu.

The boy is recovering from two blood exchanges needed to stave off Reye's Syndrome, a rare disease which has suddenly surfaced in the area. Nine cases have been reported in the area since Feb. 9.

The disease mysteriously strikes children. Its symptoms resemble an attack of flu. It causes heavy vomiting, delirium and death if not treated.

"I'll be afraid everytime they say there's flu," said Mrs. Leon Wade.

Her son was hurried to Cincinnati Children's Hospital when Alonzo's "cold" was accompanied by extreme vomiting, delirium and unconsciousness.

He was reported conscious and in satisfactory condition Tuesday.

The outbreak of the disease has physicians concerned. A number of areas around the nation report an upswing.

A Cincinnati pediatrician says blood exchanges have proven the only successful step to combat the disease. The illness causes brain swelling, fatty deposits in the liver and an increased ammonia level in the blood. So far, no methods have been discovered to determine susceptibility to the disease.

It may be transmitted by a virus, the doctor said.

The physician, who asked not to be identified, recommended that parents watch for excessive vomiting.

He doubts the current national epidemic of viral-respiratory diseases is necessarily related to the alarming increase of Reye's Syndrome.

"It may be a combination of a virus and drug or allergin in the body," he said. "Some people incriminate aspirin. In light of the viral epidemic now we have to assume that maybe the virus we're seeing now is really the one that cause Reye's Syndrome."

Of the nine cases treated in Cincinnati, five remain hospitalized. Among them is a 6-year-old girl in serious condition, the hospital said.

Snow Hits New England And Rockies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow whitened the northern and central Rockies and interior New England today, and rain splashed into a large part of the Northeast.

Clear skies and seasonal temperatures favored a broad stretch of the midcontinent between the storm regions.

Heavy snow plastered northern New England, piling up to 6 inches in sections of Maine and Vermont. In the West, parts of Colorado and Utah were coated by up to 3 inches overnight in a general snow that ranged from northern Arizona to Montana.

Travel advisories were in effect for New Mexico and eastern Colorado as the snow swirled eastward.

Rain and drizzle extended from the central Appalachians to the Eastern Seaboard and southern New England. Nearly an inch soaked Portland, Maine, during the night.

Unseasonably mild weather held temperatures in the 40s and 50s overnight in the central Plains and along the Middle Atlantic Coast.

Playboy Press Buys Agnew Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's literary agent says a novel now being written by Agnew will be published by Playboy Press.

Scott Meredith, the agent, said publication is tentatively set for early 1975.

Meredith said Agnew would be paid more than $50,000 but less than $250,000 for the novel, said to be a story of international political intrigue involving a vice president of the United States.

Glenn Bares Financial Worth

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Former astronaut John Glenn, who is running for the U.S. Senate, issued a statement of his financial worth Monday saying it is so complete that every penny he has made since 1965, including $100 he was paid for being on the Johnny Carson show, is accounted for.

Glenn issued a 183-page report which listed his net worth at $767,800. He said he would forward the report to the Ohio Ethics Commission.

"There is nothing else I can report," Glenn said in a statement. "It is complete and open. To the best of my knowledge, it is the first time in the history of this state and nation that any candidate for major office has made such a complete financial disclosure."

Glenn said that Sen. Howard Metzenbaum's financial statement issued 10 days ago "is like the difference between edited summaries of the Watergate tapes and the tapes themselves."

Metzenbaum is Glenn's opponent in the race for the Democratic Senate nomination.

Glenn said the main issue in the Senate campaign "is the integrity of our government officials. Democrats are looking for someone they can look up to—someone they know as honest enough and dedicated enough to public service to get our nation moving again..."

Metzenbaum was not available for comment, but his campaign manager, James J. Schiller, said he was glad that Glenn made the statement but added, "Glenn achieved his wealth over less than 10 years by capitalizing on his service as an astronaut."

"Metzenbaum rose up from poverty through the business world over a 40-year span," Schiller said.

Glenn reported income between 1965-72 totaling $1.12 million and said he paid more than $353,000 in federal income taxes during the period.

White House Defenses Re-Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The weekend crash landing of a stolen helicopter on the White House lawn has brought a review of ways to remedy the executive mansion's vulnerability to aerial attack.

But officials expressed doubt that, short of a costly and obtrusive anti-aircraft defense, much more can be done to protect the President's home against surprise assault by helicopter or airplane.

"What can you do?" said one White House aide in discussing the weekend incident. "There's no way you can stop it. Anytime anybody wants to..."

In the early morning hours Sunday, an unarmed helicopter stolen from Ft. Meade, Md., violated the restricted airspace over the White House, but quickly buzzed away, before the handful of security guards on duty could react.

An hour later, pursued by a Maryland State Police helicopter and tracked by military radar, it returned to the White House. This time it was pelted by automatic weapon and shotgun fire and bounced to a rough landing 100 yards from the virtually vacant mansion.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that after any such incident officials charged with protecting the President "re-evaluate their procedures."

And a Pentagon spokesman reported tighter security had been ordered at military airfields after the Army mechanic stole the helicopter which ended up on the White House lawn.

The helicopter incident unfolded at a time when White House security forces were at their thinnest.

With the President and all other members of the First Family away for the weekend, a long Secret Service agent was on duty in the basement command center. Outside, most of the dozen guard houses on the White House grounds were occupied by the younger members of the Executive Protective Service, the Secret Service's uniformed branch.

But in the hour between the first sighting of the stolen helicopter near the White House and its return, an air defense plan of sorts was implemented.

No military helicopters were sent aloft — a fact that troubles the Maryland State Police pilot pursuing the pilfered chopper.

"I thought, where is everybody? Why are just we here?" said pilot Louis Saffran in describing his feelings as he saw the stolen helicopter approach the White House for a second time.

Wyatt Earp Gun To Be Auctioned

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. (AP) — Businessman James Guthrie says he plans to auction a .22-caliber revolver that was given to Wyatt Earp by his friend Doc Holliday.

Guthrie said Monday that the pistol, which he acquired recently, had been authenticated by John Gilchrist of Tucson, a historian who once owned and displayed the pistol in his recently closed Wyatt Earp Museum here.

Gilchrist said the gun was given to Earp by Holliday in Denver in 1884. The seven-shot revolver was made by American Standard Co. of Newark, N.J.

Salem United Methodist Women Program Concerns Coming Year

The home of Mrs. James Scott, 526 Beverly Road, was the setting for the February meeting of Salem United Methodist Women. Serving as co-hostess was Miss Betty Melton.

Mrs. Delbert Poling, vice president, led devotions centered around thoughts and readings for the New Year. A reading concerning entering the new year "A New Year's Wish" was read by Mrs. Poling followed with "A Time To Refuel." "The Lord Said Go" was the title of a reading that said people should always be willing to do the work of the Lord. Mrs. Poling said that sometimes people can think of many excuses not to do certain jobs but the Lord Says "Go." She closed the devotions with prayer.

Mrs. Darl McAfee, president, conducted the business session. The flower fund gift was received by Mrs. Relis Hildenbrand and it was reported 40 sick calls were made. Mrs. McAfee told of gifts made and visitation of a nursing home at Christmas. Money allocated for this purpose which was not needed will be used for rest home visitation projects during the coming year.

Following a discussion of several projects members voted to send money from the thank-you bank to the Rev. Charles Elhjer, a South American missionary.

Mrs. McAfee appointed Miss Betty Boldoser, chairman; Mrs. Ira Barr,

Mrs. Richard Hildenbrand, Miss Betty Melton and Mrs. Donald Minor as a committee for ways and means.

Mrs. McAfee asked members to remember the following dates: Feb. 24th, Universal Day of Prayer for Students; Feb. 27th, Ash Wednesday; March 1st, World Day of Prayer and March 3rd, first Sunday in Lent.

A Bible quiz was conducted by Mrs. Ira Barr and won by Mrs. Ralph Ankrom. Mrs. McAfee closed the meeting with a meditation reading.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to members and one guest, Mrs. Ralph Wolfe.

The next meeting will be March 7th at the home of Mrs. Virgil Hayslip, Route 1, Circleville.

Metzenbaum, a cosponsor of the bill passed by the Senate Tuesday, noted Nixon has threatened to veto the measure if it clears the House. He said the law is needed to "lift the burden of the energy shortage from the backs of the consumer and the working man."

Control Board Releases Cash To Pay Guard

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board released $838,251 Tuesday to cover the costs of calling up the Ohio National Guard to keep peace on the highways during the truckers' strike earlier this month.

The callup actually cost $846,215, but the additional $8,000 was paid with funds already on hand, the board was told.

Extra costs of the Ohio Highway Patrol for the same period during the first two weeks of February still are to be paid. But a Guard spokesman said the patrol's added costs probably were "quite a bit less" than the guard's.

Other items approved by the board during a two-hour session:

—Transfer of $200,000 from the Waterways Safety Fund to the Education and Enforcement Fund—$100,000 for fiscal year 1974 and $100,000 for fiscal year 1975.

—Release of $270,746 for state assistance at St. Ann's Hospital Mental Health Center.

—$180,000 for renovation of the electrical distribution center at Gallipolis State Hospital.

—$559,012 as the state's share of reimbursement of the purchase of 113 school buses by the Ohio Department of Education.

—$63.9 million for the school foundation subsidy for February, a routine monthly release of appropriated funds for education.

—$523,137 to the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center for innovation of Thorne Hall and construction of an addition to the research operations building.

GREEN ORANGES ARE REALLY RIPE!

In our produce departments during this time of year, you may see some oranges and grapefruit that actually look green. If you've hesitated to believe our produce man when he assures you that those green oranges and grapefruit are ripe, listen again! He's telling you the truth. Since green is generally associated with "unripe" this is the natural assumption when green oranges appear. The truth is, however, that government regulations require that before harvesting, all oranges and grapefruit must be fully ripe, with certain sugar to acid ratios. As the fruit ripens on the tree, it turns orange or yellow, and actually "looks" ripe long before it is. This is why the sugar to acid ratio is used to determine maturity of the fruit. As the temperatures rise in the spring, the warmer ground temperatures cause chlorophyll (the greening substance) to return to the skins of the fruit. The longer the fruit remains on the tree, the sweeter it becomes and the greener the skins become. So instead of being unripe, this fruit is actually sweet, juicy and fully ripe.

GREEN ORANGES ARE REALLY RIPE!

In our produce departments during this time of year, you may see some oranges and grapefruit that actually look green. If you've hesitated to believe our produce man when he assures you that those green oranges and grapefruit are ripe, listen again! He's telling you the truth. Since green is generally associated with "unripe" this is the natural assumption when green oranges appear. The truth is, however, that government regulations require that before harvesting, all oranges and grapefruit must be fully ripe, with certain sugar to acid ratios. As the fruit ripens on the tree, it turns orange or yellow, and actually "looks" ripe long before it is. This is why the sugar to acid ratio is used to determine maturity of the fruit. As the temperatures rise in the spring, the warmer ground temperatures cause chlorophyll (the greening substance) to return to the skins of the fruit. The longer the fruit remains on the tree, the sweeter it becomes and the greener the skins become. So instead of being unripe, this fruit is actually sweet, juicy and fully ripe.

Green-Eyed Monster

By JIM BISHOP

Jealousy is a more popular emotion than love. Deep affection must be hunted, found and kept alive by giving. Conversely, jealousy grows unbidden in the mind, like a dwarf cancer. It is present before we realize it, and no power is great enough to dispossess it.

Love can be strangled easily by neglect, betrayal, sometimes by a long illness. Jealousy thrives on adversity. It flourishes on hard luck. It may be the only human emotion which requires no fuel.

Theodore Reik, the author-psychiatrist, once described it as "a mixture of depression, aggressiveness and envy." He forgot the word insecurity. This is the coward's cross.

It has broken more marriages and more friendships than death. Worse, it is incurable. Decades ago, it was common for a wife who killed her husband to plead: "I did it because I loved him." The words brought the cynic's smile to my lips.

In most cases, she slaughtered her man because she had lost him to someone else. She was possessed by a rage of visions of him with the other woman and often she was certain that she was losing her mind.

And yet, it should be stated that wives, to generalize, are more tolerant of infidelity than husbands. I know of numberless cases of women who know that he is not working late at the office, but will battle silently to keep the family together.

The number of men who forgive their wives can be numbered on the fingers of one thumb. When she gives herself to another man, she crushes his ego; his virility is assailed. When jealous husbands kill unfaithful wives, they seldom say, "I did it because I loved her." The statement, boiled down, is, "She was no damn good."

The spectrum of jealousy, as a fiery consuming emotion, spreads to organizations, neighborhood houses, big corporations, even nations. Who can deny that if Israel was not a flourishing modern nation built on sand—if it was poor, bankrupt and powerless—that the Arab nations would be less militant. The Egyptians have owned the sand dunes since the days of the pharaohs. In 3,500 years, they have done less with it than the Jews have achieved in 25 years.

Individual success breeds jealousy. Nobody envies the failure. For him we reserve pity. No one worries the chairman of the board more than the aggressive young executive. He's the threat.

Jealousy has scarred my brain many times, in many ways. When reporters were promoted to better jobs, I did not dwell on their success. I bemoaned my failure. Why him? Why not me?

When I was single, I could admire a girl to the point where she walked through my dreams on garlands of flowers. But when she finally said: "Look, Jim. I must be honest with you, I wouldn't go out with you if you were the last man on earth."

Instantly, the garlands became thorns. I despised the girl. Nor, in my callow days, was I above spreading lies about her. I didn't call it jealousy. I thought of her as stupid.

The man who waits for a bus is jealous of the guy in a car. The struggling mother is jealous of the girl friend with the bright new dress. The hard-working student hates the oaf who gets high marks without strain.

My father's jealousy was comical. He took my mother to Lundy's for dinner in Sheephead Bay. He was 66; she was 65. He excused himself, went to another table, and grabbed a young man by the lapels, and growled: "If I catch you looking at my wife once more, I'll break your face."

The stranger asked for a check and fled. My mother begged a waiter to escort her to the car. She was blind.

I have lots of cousins, aunts and uncles. We had fun playing nickel poker years ago. Then a couple of books I wrote became lucky and I appeared on some talk shows. I haven't heard from relatives in years.

Jealousy is both given and received. Sometimes, the one who applauds your success the loudest is the most dangerous. Most Presidents of the United States learn to their sorrow that, unless they can buy and rebuy old friendships with government favors, they lose buddies.

To understand man's base nature, watch a baby in a highchair. He spurns food his mother offers; he spits it out to test her adoration of him. If she ignores him for a moment with her husband, or another child, he screams with rage.

He begins life thinking that he is the center of the universe. As he grows, it is difficult to settle for anything less

11th State Adopts Gasoline Plan

BY WILLIAM GILLEN

Associated Press Writer

Virginia will become the 11th state to adopt a gasoline distribution system, the nation's fourth mandatory plan, when its odd-even Oregon-style plan goes into effect at midnight Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Vermont has decided to suspend plans for a voluntary odd-even system that would have started Wednesday.

Announcement of the Virginia plan was made Monday by Gov. Mills E. Godwin.

State police in the East reported traffic generally lighter than usual at the end of the three-day holiday weekend. Officials in the West and South said lines at gasoline stations were fairly short and traffic normal or just below normal for the holiday.

Virginia joins New Jersey, Maryland and one county in Hawaii in making its plan mandatory. Under the plan, motorists with license plates ending in even numbers buy on even-numbered days, odd numbers buy on odd days.

Six other states and Washington, D.C., also have the Oregon-style plan in effect. New Hampshire starts one today on a two-week experimental basis.

The Virginia governor said he was "loathe" to issue the executive order. But he said he saw it as the only current means of coping with a fuel shortage that has seen motorists, particularly in the populous Tidewater and Northern Virginia areas, waiting for hours in order to get gasoline at the few remaining open stations.

Under the order, no motorist may purchase gasoline unless his fuel gauge shows his car's tank is less than half full.

Vermont Gov. Thomas P. Salmon, announcing the suspension of his state's planned program, said: "There is both massive misunderstanding of this plan and its purposes and strong evidence of unwillingness by a substantial number of gasoline stations to comply."

In New York, the legislature in Westchester County, a suburb of New York City, voted overwhelmingly Monday to institute a mandatory odd-even system. And officials in New York City are studying whether they should adopt a mandatory system, too. New York State has a voluntary plan. Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp plans to announce a change today in his state's odd-even rationing plan. It will be based on the numbers on vehicle inspection stickers rather than on license tags. An aide to the governor said the plan would go into effect Wednesday.

South Carolina Gov. John C. West plans a news conference today to announce his plans for handling the shortage. Indications are that the state will adopt a voluntary odd-even plan.

In a letter sent Monday to William E. Simon, administrator of the Federal Energy Office, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., asked for 15 million gallons of additional gasoline per month for the Chicago area.

Green-Eyed Monster

By JIM BISHOP

Jealousy is a more popular emotion than love. Deep affection must be hunted, found and kept alive by giving. Conversely, jealousy grows unbidden in the mind, like a dwarf cancer. It is present before we realize it, and no power is great enough to dispossess it.

Love can be strangled easily by neglect, betrayal, sometimes by a long illness. Jealousy thrives on adversity. It flourishes on hard luck. It may be the only human emotion which requires no fuel.

Psychiatrist Reik, the author-psychiatrist, once described it as "a mixture of depression, aggressiveness and envy." He forgot the word insecurity. This is the coward's cross.

It has broken more marriages and more friendships than death. Worse, it is incurable. Decades ago, it was common for a wife who killed her husband to plead: "I did it because I loved him." The words brought the cynic's smile to my lips.

In most cases, she slaughtered her man because she had lost him to someone else. She was possessed by a rage of visions of him with the other woman and often she was certain that she was losing her mind.

And yet, it should be stated that wives, to generalize, are more tolerant of infidelity than husbands. I know of numberless cases of women who know that he is not working late at the office, but will battle silently to keep the family together.

The number of men who forgive their wives can be numbered on the fingers of one thumb. When she gives herself to another man, she crushes his ego; his virility is assailed. When jealous husbands kill unfaithful wives, they seldom say, "I did it because I loved her." The statement, boiled down, is, "She was no damn good."

The spectrum of jealousy, as a fiery consuming emotion, spreads to organizations, neighborhood houses, big corporations, even nations. Who can deny that if Israel was not a flourishing modern nation built on sand—if it was poor, bankrupt and powerless—that the Arab nations would be less militant. The Egyptians have owned the sand dunes since the days of the pharaohs. In 3,500 years, they have done less with it than the Jews have achieved in 25 years.

Individual success breeds jealousy. Nobody envies the failure. For him we reserve pity. No one worries the chairman of the board more than the aggressive young executive. He's the threat.

Jealousy has scarred my brain many times, in many ways. When reporters were promoted to better jobs, I did not dwell on their success. I bemoaned my failure. Why him? Why not me?

When I was single, I could admire a girl to the point where she walked through my dreams on garlands of flowers. But when she finally said: "Look, Jim. I must be honest with you, I wouldn't go out with you if you were the last man on earth."

Instantly, the garlands became thorns. I despised the girl. Nor, in my callow days, was I above spreading lies about her. I didn't call it jealousy. I thought of her as stupid.

The man who waits for a bus is jealous of the guy in a car. The struggling mother is jealous of the girl friend with the bright new dress. The hard-working student hates the oaf who gets high marks without strain.

My father's jealousy was comical. He took my mother to Lundy's for dinner in Sheephead Bay. He was 66; she was 65. He excused himself, went to another table, and grabbed a young man by the lapels, and growled: "If I catch you looking at my wife once more, I'll break your face."

The stranger asked for a check and fled. My mother begged a waiter to escort her to the car. She was blind.

I have lots of cousins, aunts and uncles. We had fun playing nickel poker years ago. Then a couple of books I wrote became lucky and I appeared on some talk shows. I haven't heard from relatives in years.

Jealousy is both given and received. Sometimes, the one who applauds your success the loudest is the most dangerous. Most Presidents of the United States learn to their sorrow that, unless they can buy and rebuy old friendships with government favors, they lose buddies.

To understand man's base nature, watch a baby in a highchair. He spurns food his mother offers; he spits it out to test her adoration of him. If she ignores him for a moment with her husband, or another child, he screams with rage.

He begins life thinking that he is the center of the universe. As he grows, it is difficult to settle for anything less

11th State Adopts Gasoline Plan

BY WILLIAM GILLEN
Associated Press Writer

Virginia will become the 11th state to adopt a gasoline distribution system, the nation's fourth mandatory plan, when its odd-even Oregon-style plan goes into effect at midnight Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Vermont has decided to suspend plans for a voluntary odd-even system that would have started Wednesday.

Announcement of the Virginia plan was made Monday by Gov. Mills E. Godwin.

State police in the East reported traffic generally lighter than usual at the end of the three-day holiday weekend. Officials in the West and South said lines at gasoline stations were fairly short and traffic normal or just below normal for the holiday.

Virginia joins New Jersey, Maryland and one county in Hawaii in making its plan mandatory. Under the plan, motorists with license plates ending in even numbers buy on even-numbered days, odd numbers buy on odd days.

Six other states and Washington, D.C., also have the Oregon-style plan in effect. New Hampshire starts one today on a two-week experimental basis.

The Virginia governor said he was "loathe" to issue the executive order. But he said he saw it as the only current means of coping with a fuel shortage that has seen motorists, particularly in the populous Tidewater and Northern Virginia areas, waiting for hours in order to get gasoline at the few remaining open stations.

Under the order, no motorist may purchase gasoline unless his fuel gauge shows his car's tank is less than half full.

Vermont Gov. Thomas P. Salmon, announcing the suspension of his state's planned program, said: "There is both massive misunderstanding of this plan and its purposes and strong evidence of unwillingness by a substantial number of gasoline stations to comply."

In New York, the legislature in Westchester County, a suburb of New York City, voted overwhelmingly Monday to institute a mandatory odd-even system. And officials in New York City are studying whether they should adopt a mandatory system, too. New York State has a voluntary plan. Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp plans to announce a change today in his state's odd-even rationing plan. It will be based on the numbers on vehicle inspection stickers rather than on license tags. An aide to the governor said the plan would go into effect Wednesday.

South Carolina Gov. John C. West plans a news conference today to announce his plans for handling the shortage. Indications are that the state will adopt a voluntary odd-even plan.

In a letter sent Monday to William E. Simon, administrator of the Federal Energy Office, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., asked for 15 million gallons of additional gasoline per month for the Chicago area.

Feedlot Runoff Curbs Could Boost Consumer Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government plans to curb water pollution resulting from animal feedlot runoff would cost farmers at least $750 million and could add substantially to consumer food costs, the Agriculture Department says.

The curbs are called for by the Federal Water Pollution Control Act passed by Congress in 1972. The law directs the Environmental Protection Agency to set up a broad national program for eliminating water pollution. Guidelines drafted last fall by EPA are aimed at stopping pollutants at sources so they do not enter rivers, lakes and streams during times of excessive rainfall.

The department, in a report published today in "Farm Index," says the guidelines currently are designed to apply by 1977 to large farm producers having at least 1,000 beef animals, 700 dairy cows or 2,500 hogs. "But later this year, guidelines will be proposed for smaller units," the index said. "Eventually all procedures may be covered."

If all farmers had to abide by the current guidelines as written, officials estimate 280,000 dairy, cattle and hog farmers would have to install facilities to curtail runoff.

"The costs of installing these systems would fall heaviest on small producers," the report said. "For example, of the estimated $133 million that the fed beef industry would have to invest... more than two-thirds would be borne by feeders selling fewer than 100 head per year."

It was estimated hog producers would have to spend $280 million, with four-fifths of the outlay by farmers

Report U.S. Holds Wide Lead In Antisubmarine Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a kind of guerrilla war of the deep, the United States has far surpassed the Soviet Union in the ability to locate and keep track of the other country's submarines.

While highly-sophisticated U.S. sonar equipment can pick up surface ships hundreds of miles away and submarines 15 to 20 miles away, U.S.

antisubmarine specialists have been surprised at the slow pace of Russian antisubmarine development.

They say the Russians are at least a decade behind, especially in sonar equipment aboard their atomic submarines.

The contrast becomes vital with today's opening of a new round of strategic arms limitation talks in Geneva. Some U.S. officials expect the Soviets to propose mutual limitations on the development of antisubmarine warfare gear.

"That would be completely to their advantage if we agree," said one high-ranking official. "It will be at least a decade before Soviet ASW (antisubmarine warfare equipment) can be taken seriously."

As explained by U.S. officials, the only job assigned to Soviet attack submarines is to maintain the ability to destroy enemy shipping. Unlike American ships, Soviet subs are not assigned to keep open shipping lines or to escort convoys.

"So to keep track of those subs we have to engage in a kind of guerrilla warfare, you know, three or four of ours to one of theirs."

The Circleville Herald, Wednesday February 20, 1974 13

No matter what happens to strategic bombers or landbased missiles, both the United States and the Soviet Union are sure of raining destruction on the other in the event one strikes first.

The reason: The ability of each country's missile-carrying submarines to stay hidden and respond quickly to an attack.

Once one country or the other can quickly zero in on the other's subs, the nuclear tables have been turned and the strategic balance has been tipped.

Trout have horizontal vision of 300 degrees below the water surface.

Only about one-third of all cottontail rabbits live long enough to leave the nest.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

26 Dum-Dums

DEAR ABBY: Every year my husband and I give a large gala party. This year we mailed out 82 invitations. They were marked, "R.S.V.P." with our phone number. Our return address was on every envelope.

The day before the party we had only 48 responses! I asked two of my friends to please help me phone those from whom we had not heard to find out whether they were coming.

Would you believe that 26 said, "Yes, we're coming, but we didn't think we had to let you know unless we couldn't make it." (Three in that group asked if they could bring their houseguests-which totaled nine extra.) Three couples declined, saying they had meant to let us know, but just never got around to it. Five couldn't be reached, so we assumed that they were out of town.

My husband was furious, and said: "Next year we're not calling up anybody. If they don't respond but come anyway, when they come to the door we'll just say, 'Sorry, we weren't expecting you.'"

Abby, please print this, and tell people that R.S.V.P. means, "Please let us know whether OR NOT you are coming?"

HAD IT IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR HAD IT: Here's your letter. And if it's any comfort to you, you have lots of company. People who ignore R.S.V.P. invitations are either ignorant or negligent. And it's a toss-up as to which is worse.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I haven't lived together for 14 years. He sleeps upstairs and I sleep downstairs. We hardly speak.

Here's my question: If two people who aren't married but have lived together as man and wife for seven years are considered legally married, why wouldn't my husband and I, who have NOT lived together as man and wife for 14 years, be considered legally divorced?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Although there are "common law marriages," there are no common law divorces.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about a relative of mine. She has built a chapel in her home, and I mean, it's as big as some churches have. She must have spent a fortune on it. I want to know is this proper to do-religionwise? This woman has a church to go to. She doesn't have to have a church right in her own home.

Academy Award Choices Listed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Campaigning began today for the 46th Motion Picture Academy Awards after nominations that raised a number of questions.

Among them:

Why did the much-acclaimed "Last Tango in Paris" and "Serpico" receive only two nominations, the same number as the critically deplored "Jonathan Livingston Seagull?"

Why did Jason Miller, who plays the central role in "The Exorcist," get nominated as supporting rather than a leading actor?

Why did Tatum O'Neal, who occupied as much screen time as her father, Ryan O'Neal, in "Paper Moon," receive a nomination as supporting actress?

Why did Bernardo Bertolucci win nomination as best director while his "Last Tango in Paris" was overlooked as best picture?

Why was "A Touch of Class" nominated as best picture while its director, Melvin Frank, was overlooked in the direction category?

These were some of the unanswered issues raised by Tuesday's nominations. It appeared that the Academy's 3,200 voters were thinking in terms of hits. "The Exorcist" and "The Sting" scored top honors with 10 nominations each.

The voters seemed to shy away from overly rewarding the sex-ridden "Last Tango in Paris." They also seemed hazy about the distinction between stars and supporting players.

The nominees for best picture were "American Graffiti," "Cries and Whispers," "The Exorcist," "The Sting" and "A Touch of Class."

In the race for best actor, two former winners, Marlon Brando of "Last Tango in Paris" and Jack Lemmon of "Save the Tiger," are contending against three relative newcomers — Jack Nicholson, "The Last Detail"; Al Pacino, "Serpico"; and Robert Redford, "The Sting."

Three former winners are in the race for best actress: Glenda Jackson, "A Touch of Class"; Barbra Streisand, "The Way We Were"; and Joanne Woodward, "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams."

Youngsters Tatum O'Neal, 10, "Paper Moon," and Linda Blair, 15, "The Exorcist," are competing for best supporting actress with Sylvia Sidney, 63, "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams." Also nominated are Candy Clark, "American Graffiti," and Madeline Kahn, "Paper Moon."

Nominated for best supporting actor: Vincent Gardenia, "Bang the Drum Slowly"; Jack Gilford, "Save the Tiger"; John Houseman, "The Paper Chase"; Jason Miller, "The Exorcist"; and Randy Quaid, "The Last Detail."

The nominations should give heart to feminists. The academy noted that, aside from acting categories, 10 women were nominated, the largest number in history. Julia Phillips, co-producer of "The Sting," was the first woman producer to have a film nominated as best picture of the year.

Political Canvasser Enjoys Work

FOSTORIA, Ohio (AP) — Ray Coburn has laid a lot of leather on the sidewalks of this northwestern Ohio community.

The 81-year-old retired glassblower claims he has spent more than 60 years working as a political canvasser in local, state and national elections.

Coburn, a former four-term Democratic mayor and recently retired service director, has made an art of knocking on doors and persuading his neighbors to vote for the party's slate of candidates.

"I started way back with Woodrow Wilson (1912) going house to house," he said.

However, Coburn said, there is more to door-to-door campaigning than rapping your knuckles and talking politics.

"I go right to the house and rap on the front door," he said. "If they don't come, I go to the back door. If they don't answer, I even kick on the basement window. Someone might be down there doing the laundry."

That's just the beginning. "When they come to the door, you have to know enough psychology to decide whether they want a conversation or don't want a conversation. It takes a long time to learn that."

Coburn said, "Most people who come to the door are transparent. If a mother comes to the door with crying, sick baby, you can tell she doesn't want to talk politics."

"Some people can go out canvassing, and in one minute can make somebody mad."

Being a good political canvasser takes time, he said. "You can't be a machinist in 15 minutes. You can't be anything in 15 minutes. It takes patience."

More than time and experience, Woman Surrenders In Stolen Cash Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — FBI agents say a Columbus woman indicted last week on a charge of receiving stolen money has surrendered.

Agents said Deborah Denis Drake, 22, turned herself in Tuesday.

She was indicted for receiving and concealing money taken in the Dec. 12 robbery of the Park Federal Savings and Loan Association, the FBI said.

Area Cagers In Tourney Tilts On Weekend

Once again it's tournament basketball time with all four area schools swinging into sectional tournament action this weekend.

Circleville will meet Bishop Hartley 8:30 p.m. at Grove City in AA play and Westfall will face Jonathan Alder 8 p.m. at Groveport in A action Friday night.

Saturday night will find Teays Valley meeting Mifflin 7 p.m. and Logan Elm going against Dublin 8:30 p.m. in a pair of AA contests at Grove City.

Teays Valley is holding a pre-sale of tickets for the Saturday tournament game against Mifflin. Five hundred tickets go on sale this afternoon at the high school and will continue until all are sold, according to Benis Lutz, superintendent. The Grove City gymnasium has a capacity of 2,500.

The Tigers of Circleville, 13-5, will be out to continue their six game winning streak against a strong Bishop Hartley squad, also 13-5 on the season. Circleville is second seeded in the Grove City sectional.

Hartley tied Watterson for the championship of the Catholic League. The Hawks are a run and shoot club with the ability to put points on the board. They have been averaging 84 points a contest in league play. During the season they came up with an 87-65 win over Miami Trace.

The man the Tigers will have to contain is Mike Gilliland, 5-foot-10 guard, who leads the Hawks in scoring. Twice this year he has put 35 points in the scoring ledger. Other starters for Hartley are: Douglas Jones, 6-foot; David Profera, 6-foot-3; Mark McNally, 6-foot-4; and Ronald White, 6-foot-1. The sixth man is 6-foot-5 Richard Boone. Coach John Lawhorn will go with his starting five of: Doug Radabaugh and Robin Martin at the guards, Kris Kline at center with Harold Reed and Perry Hoskins working up front.

Westfall, 3-15, for the season will be going against a Jonathan Alder team which is 6-12 for the year in a single game at Groveport High School.

The Vikings of Teays Valley will be putting their 16-2 mark on the line against Mifflin who carries a 6-12 mark into the fray.

However, Mifflin competes in the rugged City League in Columbus so the record is not a true indication of the team. Mifflin is a big, quick squad with good shooters who like to run. Defensively, they usually go with 1-2-2 zone.

The starting five for Teays Valley will be: Craig Pontius and Jay Brinker at the guards, Jim Logsdon at center and Terry Collins and Jeff Anderson at the forwards.

Logan Elm, 8-10 for the year, will face Dublin, 9-9, in the second contest Saturday night at Grove City. Dublin finished in third place in the Metropolitan League.

Area fans going to Grove City can take Route 104 to Route 665. Turn left on Route 665 and follow it to the junction of Hoover Road, just before the I-71 overpass. Turn right on Hoover Road and the high school will be several miles on the left.

Good, Bad Year For L.B. State

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Despite a 20-2 record, Long Beach State basketball coach Lute Olson is suffering through what he calls "the worst season of my life."

The glittering record and the prospect of a fifth consecutive Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship, which they can clinch Saturday night by beating University of California-Santa Barbara, can't erase the stigma of National Collegiate Athletic Association probation.

And Olson plays a waiting game to learn if star junior forward Roscoe Pondexter will be eligible next year, after a recent court order enabled Pondexter and senior guard Glenn McDonald to finish the season.

"At first it brought us together and I think we're playing very close to the potential any coach hopes for," said Olson, whose team has lost only once, by two points at Marquette, since the NCAA edict early last month. "That's not saying it's been easy. We — coaches and players — have gone through periods of depression once the facts have settled on us."

"We're playing until March 5 and that's it. No more."

The NCAA will send other team to the NCAA playoffs because recruiting and other violations — before Olson came from Long Beach City College to succeed Jerry Tarkanian — led to at least three years probation banning the team from postseason play. The NCAA also cut from six to two the number of basketball scholarships Olson can give for next season.

"I have no bone to pick with the NCAA for the probation," said Olson. "If there isn't a strong group at the head of colleges and universities, we're going to have absolute chaos. There's no way for individual conferences to exercise control. It's obvious we need the NCAA."

But Olson criticizes the NCAA method in the McDonald-Pondexter case. The NCAA, alleging that the two had others take entrance exams, advised Long Beach State to declare them ineligible.

"If the NCAA recommendation is not followed, obviously there will be problems to follow," said the coach,

23 Games In New Grid Loop On TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The new World Football League will have 23 of its games for the upcoming season telecast by the TVS Television Network, although the fledgling league hasn't completed organization of its franchises or alignment of its divisions.

Gary Davidson, president of the WFL, Tuesday announced a two-part television package which will cost sponsors an estimated $5 million, with the WFL receiving at least $1 million of the broadcast revenues.

The package calls for 13 games to be nationally telecast over an independent network of an expected 130 stations. There will also be 10 contests limited to stations in top markets.

The 13-game segment will feature eight Thursday night games to be aired beginning at 9 p.m. EDT July 18 through Sept. 5, four late-night contests and the championship game slated for the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving.

The late games are scheduled for 11:30 p.m. EDT Sept. 21, Oct. 21, Nov. 21 and Nov. 23.

The 10-game half of the package calls for Thursday night telecasts from Sept. 12-Nov. 14 with each game starting at 9 p.m. EDT.

The WFL plans to open with a 20-week schedule July 10 and end with a four-team playoff and the championship game.

Steve Green Tops Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Green of Indiana's first place Hoosiers has been named the Big Ten basketball player of the week.

The 6-foot-7, 218-pound junior from Milan, Ind., helped the Hoosiers take over the conference lead over the weekend as Indiana ran up convincing victories over Michigan and Illinois.

refusing to speculate on further sanctions that might have resulted from the only organization available if a school wants a major athletic program.

Because the NCAA didn't make the formal declaration and Long Beach membership is voluntary, a federal judge removed the NCAA as a defendant in a suit filed on behalf of the two players. The judge referred the matter to a hearing at Long Beach State.

The players have signed statements that they took the tests themselves. Olson said the hearing should be finished in April.

Pondexter and his younger brother Clifton, a freshman sensation, would be the only returning starters next season, but if the school's hearing goes against Roscoe, he would not be allowed to play.

Playoff Plan Set For MAC If Necessary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The race for the Mid-American Conference basketball championship has become so close that a playoff strategy has been devised, Commissioner Fred Jacoby said Tuesday.

He said the procedure would allow the MAC to choose a representative for the conference's berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament.

The MAC champion automatically qualifies for the NCAA Midwest Regional first round at Terre Haute, Ind.

Jacoby said the procedures would allow a representative to be chosen up to a four-way tie for champion.

In a four-way tie, the teams would be considered co-champions and meet in a playoff March 5 at a neutral site, he said.

If three teams tie, playoffs would be March 4 and 6, with a drawing to determine the first round bye.

In a two-way tie, the teams would be played March 4 with the winners meeting March 6. Pairings would be made by draw, Jacoby said.

Ohio University currently leads the conference with a 7-3 record. But Toledo has a 6-3 record and can tie with a victory at Central Michigan tonight.

Bowling Green is third with a 6-4 record, Miami fourth at 5-5 and Western Michigan and Central Michigan tied for fifth at 4-5.

Providence Tops R.I.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

When you're Marvin Barnes, and you can score 32 points and grab 23 rebounds, you can apparently set your own rules.

Barnes shuns pre-game warmups, much to the displeasure of his coach, Dave Gavitt, and the big Providence center sometimes shuns the game's first half.

"He came out to play in the second half," said Rhode Island Coach Jack Kraft after Barnes warmed up in the first half with nine points, then caught fire in the next 20 minutes with 23 more points, leading 11th-ranked Providence to a 76-73 college basketball victory over Rhode Island Tuesday night.

"He's just outstanding," added Kraft. "There isn't much you can do when he wants to play."

"Marvin was great in the last three minutes," said Gavitt, who added he wouldn't discipline Barnes even though the 6-foot-9, 213-pound player ambled on the court for the pregame practice seven minutes after his teammates.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, 15th-ranked Creighton beat California-Irvine 83-52 and 20th-ranked Louisville defeated Wichita State 106-90.

Junior Bridgeman tossed in 28 points and Louisville outscored Wichita State 36-8 at the foul line for the Cardinals' eighth Missouri Valley Conference victory in nine outings.

Bridgeman sank 11 of 18 from the floor and the Cardinals went 36 for 50 at the foul line.

Robert Wilson's game-high 29 points paced Wichita State.

Gene Harmon, with 24 points, and Doug Brookins, with 16, led Creighton past University of California-Irvine.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Phil Sellers, who scored his 1,000th career point en route to a 25-point game, helped Rutgers to an 89-82 victory over Connecticut; freshman forward Glen Williams' seven straight baskets sparked a second-half rally that snapped Boston College's seven-game winning streak and gave St. John's an 80-72 victory; Bennie Allen's jumpers with 27 seconds left and five seconds remaining forced the overtime and St. Peter's, N.J. ran off six straight points in the overtime to defeat Boston University 113-108, and Navy captain Bob Marshburn scored 8 points to help beat Adelphi.

Terry Crumley Selected To Mid-State Star Squad

Terry Crumley of Logan Elm gained a first team berth on the 10-man Mid-State All League basketball team selected Tuesday night.

The 5-foot-10 Crumley, a senior at Logan Elm was joined on the star studded squad by: Eric Alexander, 6-foot-3, senior, Millersport; Jeff Black, 5-foot-10, junior, Canal Winchester; Clark Dupler, 6-foot-1, junior, Berne Union; Rick McQuade, 5-foot-11, senior, Bloom Carroll; Craig Hartmen, 5-foot-9, senior, Canal Winchester; Robin Kemmerer, 5-foot-11, senior, Fairfield Union; Gary Bitler, 5-foot-9, senior, Liberty Union; Bob Henehan, 6-foot-4, junior, Fisher Catholic; and John Coffman, 5-foot-7, senior, Bloom Carroll.

Alexander was selected as the most valuable player in the league.

Scott Pontius of Logan Elm and Jim Smith of Amanda-Clearcreek both received honorable mention on the star team.

TERRY CRUMLEY

Scrambles Held At Cycle Trails

Mike Frazee of Chauncey, riding a 125 cc Yamaha, was high point winner in the Hare Scrambles held by Cycle Trails at Adelphi. There were 130 bikes entered in the competition.

In the 100 cc class, Jerry Ziegler of the Plains was first, Frank Smith of Marietta was second and Ernest Roach of Belpre.

In the 125 cc class, Gary Wood of Nelsonville was first, Rod Bush of Parkersburg, W. Va., second and Jeff Corra of Parkersburg, W. Va., third.

In the 126 to 200 cc class, Doug Shultz of Barbersville, W. Va. was first, Henry Routt of Chillicothe second, Les Dennis Jr. of Glouster third.

In the 250 cc class, Gary Stanley of Proctorville was first, David Tilley of Zanesville second and Mike Treadway of New Lexington third.

In the open class Denny Vincent of Proctorville was first, Larry Berg of Marietta was second and Clifford Herst of Marietta third.

Cycle Trails plans the first Moto cross April 21 and is negotiating a summer series involving two other tracks.

Sunday the Central Ohio Competition Riders are having an enduro from the park.

Kentucky Wesleyan Tops Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky Wesleyan moved to the head of the class in a late-season scramble for honors in the Associated Press college division basketball poll today.

Fairmont State, which had a straight-A record until flunking tests given last week by two West Virginia schools, Salem and Bluefield State, fell to third.

Tennessee-Chattanooga, 1-1 last week, held second place with an 18-3 record, but other teams in the Top Five dropped in the rankings.

Alcorn A&M, third a week ago, slipped to seventh after being beaten by Jackson State, and Old Dominion dropped from fifth to ninth. Filling the gaps were Evansville, which moved from seventh to fourth, and Morgan State, which jumped from ninth to fifth.

Kentucky Wesleyan's success was due in part to an 84-74 triumph over Tennessee State which fell from No. 6 to No. 11 after the loss, one of two last week.

Kentucky Wesleyan now is 17-3 for the season, while Tennessee State is 18-3.

Fairmont State, 19-0 going into last week's play, managed only one victory in three games — a 123-78 trouncing of Wheeling — and wound up with a 20-2 mark.

Kentucky Wesleyan received 20 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters and 647 points compared to five first-place votes apiece for UT-Chattanooga, with 530 points, and Fairmont State, third with 452.

Evansville, 16-5 after humbling DePauw 108-70, collected two first-place votes and 381 points. Fifth-ranked Morgan State, sixth-ranked Jackson State, No. 8 Roanoke and No. 9 Old Dominion shared the other first-place votes.

Jackson State, 21-3, vaulted from 12th place a week ago after a 3-0 week; Roanoke moved up from 11th place after a 2-0 week for a 19-4 record; Old Dominion skidded to ninth after losing to William & Mary, and Augustana, Ill., 20-3, rounded out the Top 10.

Following 11th-ranked Tennessee State in the poll were Wittenberg, eighth a week ago; Midwestern and Armstrong State, which retained the 13th and 14th spots, and New Orleans, which dropped from 10th to 15th after two losses and only one victory for a 16-6 record.

CCA Tournament Sets Selections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Selections of the eight teams for the first Collegiate Commissioners Association (CCA) basketball tournament will start later this month, Mid-American Conference Commissioner Fred Jacoby said Tuesday.

The single elimination event will be played in the St. Louis Arena March 14-18.

Quebec Tops Crusaders

QUEBEC (AP) — Michel Parizeau's third goal of the game, a backhand past Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers at 5:01 of the overtime period, gave the Quebec Nordiques a 6-5 World Hockey Association victory over the Crusaders.

Cheevers protested the goal vehemently and was given a misconduct penalty.

Mr. Punctuations Wins Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP)—Mr. Punctuation, a 10-1 longshot, staged a late charge which carried him to a four-length victory in the featured race at Latonia Tuesday night.

Completing the mile in 1:40 2-5, the winner returned $23.60, $12.60 and $6.00.

Fearless Diplomat paid $4.00 and $3.60 for second. Achilles showed at $3.40.

Area Cagers In Tourney Tilts On Weekend

Once again it's tournament basketball time with all four area schools swinging into sectional tournament action this weekend.

Circleville will meet Bishop Hartley 8:30 p.m. at Grove City in AA play and Westfall will face Jonathan Alder 8 p.m. at Groveport in A action Friday night.

Saturday night will find Teays Valley meeting Mifflin 7 p.m. and Logan Elm going against Dublin 8:30 p.m. in a pair of AA contests at Grove City.

Teays Valley is holding a pre-sale of tickets for the Saturday tournament game against Mifflin. Five hundred tickets go on sale this afternoon at the high school and will continue until all are sold, according to Benis Lutz, superintendent. The Grove City gymnasium has a capacity of 2,500.

The Tigers of Circleville, 13-5, will be out to continue their six game winning streak against a strong Bishop Hartley squad, also 13-5 on the season. Cirleville is second seeded in the Grove City sectional.

Hartley tied Watterson for the championship of the Catholic League. The Hawks are a run and shoot club with the ability to put points on the board. They have been averaging 84 points a contest in league play. During the season they came up with an 87-65 win over Miami Trace.

The man the Tigers will have to contain is Mike Gilliland, 5-foot-10 guard, who leads the Hawks in scoring. Twice this year he has put 35 points in the scoring ledger.

Other starters for Hartley are: Douglas Jones, 6-foot; David Profera, 6-foot-3; Mark McNally, 6-foot-4; and Ronald White, 6-foot-1. The sixth man is 6-foot-5 Richard Boone.

Coach John Lawhorn will go with his starting five of: Doug Radabaugh and Robin Martin at the guards, Kris Kline at center with Harold Reed and Perry Hoskins working up front.

Westfall, 3-15, for the season will be going against a Jonathan Alder team which is 6-12 for the year in a single game at Groveport High School.

The Vikings of Teays Valley will be putting their 16-2 mark on the line against Mifflin who carries a 6-12 mark into the fray.

However, Mifflin competes in the rugged City League in Columbus so the record is not a true indication of the team. Mifflin is a big, quick squad with good shooters who like to run. Defensively, they usually go with 1-2-2 zone.

The starting five for Teays Valley will be: Craig Pontius and Jay Brinker at the guards, Jim Logsdon at center and Terry Collins and Jeff Anderson at the forwards.

Logan Elm, 8-10 for the year, will face Dublin, 9-9, in the second contest Saturday night at Grove City. Dublin finished in third place in the Metropolitan League.

Area fans going to Grove City can take Route 104 to Route 665. Turn left on Route 665 and follow it to the junction of Hoover Road, just before the I-71 overpass. Turn right on Hoover Road and the high school will be several miles on the left.

Good, Bad Year For L.B. State

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Despite a 20-2 record, Long Beach State basketball coach Lute Olson is suffering through what he calls "the worst season of my life."

The glittering record and the prospect of a fifth consecutive Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship, which they can clinch Saturday night by beating University of California-Santa Barbara, can't erase the stigma of National Collegiate Athletic Association probation.

And Olson plays a waiting game to learn if star junior forward Roscoe Pondexter will be eligible next year, after a recent court order enabled Pondexter and senior guard Glenn McDonald to finish the season.

"At first it brought us together and I think we're playing very close to the potential any coach hopes for," said Olson, whose team has lost only once, by two points at Marquette, since the NCAA edict early last month.

"That's not saying it's been easy. We — coaches and players — have gone through periods of depression once the facts have settled on us.

"We're playing until March 5 and that's it. No more."

The NCAA will send other team to the NCAA playoffs because recruiting and other violations — before Olson came from Long Beach City College to succeed Jerry Tarkanian — led to at least three years probation banning the team from postseason play. The NCAA also cut from six to two the number of basketball scholarships Olson can give for next season.

"I have no bone to pick with the NCAA for the probation," said Olson. "If there isn't a strong group at the head of colleges and universities, we're going to have absolute chaos. There's no way for individual conferences to exercise control. It's obvious we need the NCAA."

But Olson criticizes the NCAA method in the McDonald-Pondexter case. The NCAA, alleging that the two had others take entrance exams, advised Long Beach State to declare them ineligible.

"If the NCAA recommendation is not followed, obviously there will be problems to follow," said the coach,

23 Games In New Grid Loop On TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The new World Football League will have 23 of its games for the upcoming season telecast by the TVS Television Network, although the fledgling league hasn't completed organization of its franchises or alignment of its divisions.

Gary Davidson, president of the WFL, Tuesday announced a two-part television package which will cost sponsors an estimated $5 million, with the WFL receiving at least $1 million of the broadcast revenues.

The package calls for 13 games to be nationally telecast over an independent network of an expected 130 stations. There will also be 10 contests limited to stations in top markets.

The 13-game segment will feature eight Thursday night games to be aired beginning at 9 p.m. EDT July 18 through Sept. 5, four late-night contests and the championship game slated for the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving.

The late games are scheduled for 11:30 p.m. EDT Sept. 21, Oct. 21, Nov. 21 and Nov. 23.

The 10-game half of the package calls for Thursday night telecasts from Sept. 12-Nov. 14 with each game starting at 9 p.m. EDT.

The WFL plans to open with a 20-week schedule July 10 and end with a four-team playoff and the championship game.

Steve Green Tops Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Green of Indiana's first place Hoosiers has been named the Big Ten basketball player of the week.

The 6-foot-7, 218-pound junior from Milan, Ind., helped the Hoosiers take over the conference lead over the weekend as Indiana ran up convincing victories over Michigan and Illinois.

refusing to speculate on further sanctions that might have resulted from the only organization available if a school wants a major athletic program.

Because the NCAA didn't make the formal declaration and Long Beach membership is voluntary, a federal judge removed the NCAA as a defendant in a suit filed on behalf of the two players. The judge referred the matter to a hearing at Long Beach State.

The players have signed statements that they took the tests themselves. Olson said the hearing should be finished in April.

Pondexter and his younger brother Clifton, a freshman sensation, would be the only returning starters next season, but if the school's hearing goes against Roscoe, he would not be allowed to play.

Playoff Plan Set For MAC If Necessary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The race for the Mid-American Conference basketball championship has become so close that a playoff strategy has been devised, Commissioner Fred Jacoby said Tuesday.

He said the procedure would allow the MAC to choose a representative for the conference's berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament.

The MAC champion automatically qualifies for the NCAA Midwest Regional first round at Terre Haute, Ind.

Jacoby said the procedures would allow a representative to be chosen up to a four-way tie for champion.

In a two-way tie, the teams would be considered co-champions and meet in a playoff March 5 at a neutral site, he said.

If three teams tie, playoffs would be March 4 and 6, with a drawing to determine the first round bye.

In a four-way tie, two games would be played March 4 with the winners meeting March 6. Pairings would be made by draw, Jacoby said.

Ohio University currently leads the conference with a 7-3 record. But Toledo has a 6-3 record and can tie with a victory at Central Michigan tonight.

Bowling Green is third with a 6-4 record, Miami fourth at 5-5 and Western Michigan and Central Michigan tied for fifth at 4-5.

Providence Tops R.I.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

When you're Marvin Barnes, and you can score 32 points and grab 23 rebounds, you can apparently set your own rules.

Barnes shuns pre-game warmups, much to the displeasure of his coach, Dave Gavitt, and the big Providence center sometimes shuns the game's first half.

"He came out to play in the second half," said Rhode Island Coach Jack Kraft after Barnes warmed up in the first half with nine points, then caught fire in the next 20 minutes with 23 more points, leading 11th-ranked Providence to a 76-73 college basketball victory over Rhode Island Tuesday night.

"He's just outstanding," added Kraft. "There isn't much you can do when he wants to play."

"Marvin was great in the last three minutes," said Gavitt, who added he wouldn't discipline Barnes even though the 6-foot-9, 213-pound player ambled on the court for the pregame practice seven minutes after his teammates.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, 15th-ranked Creighton beat California-Irvine 83-52

and 20th-ranked Louisville defeated Wichita State 106-90.

Junior Bridgeman tossed in 28 points and Louisville outscored Wichita State 36-8 at the foul line for the Cardinals' eighth Missouri Valley Conference victory in nine outings.

Bridgeman sank 11 of 18 from the floor and the Cardinals went 36 for 50 at the foul line.

Robert Wilson's game-high 29 points paced Wichita State.

Gene Harmon, with 24 points, and Doug Brookins, with 16, led Creighton past University of California-Irvine.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Phil Sellers, who scored his 1,000th career point en route to a 25-point game, helped Rutgers to an 89-82 victory over Connecticut; freshman forward Glen Williams' seven straight baskets sparked a second-half rally that snapped Boston College's seven-game winning streak and gave St. John's an 80-72 victory; Bennie Allen's jumpers with 27 seconds left and five seconds remaining forced the overtime and St. Peter's, N.J. ran off six straight points in the overtime to defeat Boston University 113-108, and Navy captain Bob Marshburn scored 8 points to help beat Adelphi.

Terry Crumley Selected To Mid-State Star Squad

Terry Crumley of Logan Elm gained a first team berth on the 10-man Mid-State All League basketball team selected Tuesday night.

The 5-foot-10 Crumley, a senior at Logan Elm was joined on the star studded squad by: Eric Alexander, 6-foot-3, senior, Millersport; Jeff Black, 5-foot-10, junior, Canal Winchester; Clark Dupler, 6-foot-1, junior, Berne Union; Rick McQuade, 5-foot-11, senior, Bloom Carroll; Craig Hartmen, 5-foot-9, senior, Canal Winchester; Robin Kemmerer, 5-foot-11, senior, Fairfield Union; Gary Bitler, 5-foot-9, senior, Liberty Union; Bob Henehan, 6-foot-4, junior, Fisher Catholic; and John Coffman, 5-foot-7, senior, Bloom Carroll.

Alexander was selected as the most valuable player in the league.

Scott Pontius of Logan Elm and Jim Smith of Amanda-Clearcreek both received honorable mention on the star team.

Scrambles Held At Cycle Trails

Mike Frazee of Chauncey, riding a 125 cc Yamaha, was high point winner in the Hare Scrambles held by Cycle Trails at Adelphi. There were 130 bikes entered in the competition.

In the 100 cc class, Jerry Ziegler of the Plains was first, Frank Smith of Marietta was second and Ernest Roach of Belpre.

In the 125 cc class, Gary Wood of Nelsonville was first, Rod Bush of Parkersburg, W. Va., second and Jeff Corra of Parkersburg, W. Va., third.

In the 126 to 200 cc class, Doug Shultz of Barbersville, W. Va. was first, Henry Routt of Chillicothe second, Les Dennis Jr. of Gloucester third.

In the 250 cc class, Gary Stanley of Proctorville was first, David Tilley of Zanesville second and Mike Treadway of New Lexington third.

In the open class Denny Vincent of Proctorville was first, Larry Berg of Marietta was second and Clifford Herst of Marietta third.

Cycle Trails plans the first Moto cross April 21 and is negotiating a summer series involving two other tracks.

Sunday the Central Ohio Competition Riders are having an enduro from the park.

Kentucky Wesleyan Tops Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky Wesleyan moved to the head of the class in a late-season scramble for honors in the Associated Press college division basketball poll today.

Fairmont State, which had a straight-A record until flunking tests given last week by two West Virginia schools, Salem and Bluefield State, fell to third.

Tennessee-Chattanooga, 1-1 last week, held second place with an 18-3 record, but other teams in the Top Five dropped in the rankings.

Alcorn A&M, third a week ago, slipped to seventh after being beaten by Jackson State, and Old Dominion dropped from fifth to ninth. Filling the gaps were Evansville, which moved from seventh to fourth, and Morgan State, which jumped from ninth to fifth.

Kentucky Wesleyan's success was due in part to an 84-74 triumph over Tennessee State which fell from No. 6 to No. 11 after the loss, one of two last week.

Kentucky Wesleyan now is 17-3 for the season, while Tennessee State is 18-3.

Fairmont State, 19-0 going into last week's play, managed only one victory in three games — a 123-78 trouncing of Wheeling — and wound up with a 20-2 mark.

Kentucky Wesleyan received 20 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters and 647 points compared to five first-place votes apiece for UT-Chattanooga, with 530 points, and Fairmont State, third with 452.

Evansville, 16-5 after humbling DePaul 108-70, collected two first-place votes and 381 points. Fifth-ranked Morgan State, sixth-ranked Jackson State, No. 8 Roanoke and No. 9 Old Dominion shared the other first-place votes.

Jackson State, 21-3, vaulted from 12th place a week ago after a 3-0 week; Roanoke moved up from 11th place after a 2-0 week for a 19-4 record; Old Dominion skidded to ninth after losing to William & Mary, and Augustana, Ill., 20-3, rounded out the Top 10.

Following 11th-ranked Tennessee State in the poll were Wittenberg, eighth a week ago; Midwestern and Armstrong State, which retained the 13th and 14th spots, and New Orleans, which dropped from 10th to 15th after two losses and only one victory for a 16-6 record.

CCA Tournament Sets Selections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Selections of the eight teams for the first Collegiate Commissioners Association (CCA) basketball tournament will start later this month, Mid-American Conference Commissioner Fred Jacoby said Tuesday.

The single elimination event will be played in the St. Louis Arena March 14-18.

Quebec Tops Crusaders

QUEBEC (AP) — Michel Parizeau's third goal of the game, a backhander past Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers at 5:01 of the overtime period, gave the Quebec Nordiques a 6-5 World Hockey Association victory over the Crusaders.

Cheevers protested the goal vehemently and was given a misconduct penalty.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Even though he gave television "The Dating Game" nine years ago, Chuck Barris isn't all bad. For one thing, he doesn't wear ties, which in my book automatically makes him a good citizen.

For another, he's working on his second novel, "The Game Show," in which he says the hero, a TV game-show packager, finds "a good way to boost his ratings by killing contestants on the air."

Some might say this is what eventually happens to the mind of a 44-year-old Philadelphian — I have reference to Barris — who is one of Hollywood's most successful developers of TV game shows.

But he just grins and denies it.

"I'm just trying to write a book of the absurd with television in mind," he says, adding that he's not out to commit an expose of the game-show business or anything like that.

"I don't want to crusade," he says. "I just want to do a book that's entertaining and show just how crazy network television is."

Barris, a short, soft-spoken millionaire who appears the sort of guy who laughs because he suspects the world is mad, said he's been on a sabbatical from TV since September to promote his first novel.

It's called "You and Me, Babe," and is sort of a game-show "Love Story" except that the rich heroine doesn't die at the end. She only leaves the hero, an unsuccessful novelist who strikes it rich in the gameshow business. It is what critics call a "thinly disguised autobiography."

The labor occurred in the south of France in 1971. Barris still thinks of the period as "maybe the best four or five months of my life."

In coming months, he said, he'll work on a motion picture version of the book. But he's going at it like the experienced producer he is, not like the starry-eyed first novelist he is.

In short, none of his own personal loot will be in the picture.

"That's a very emotional thing to do," he said. "Some say, 'Well, if we don't get a studio to do it, we have millions of dollars in the company, and we'll produce it ourselves.'"

"I say the hell with that. That's the worst, when you get so emotionally involved. I think that's the greatest reason for failure in Hollywood."

Last Attraction

TORONTO (AP) — While the Yonge Street Mall has been dismantled after the summer, one attraction remains. On one corner sits Joe Smolij, a speed chess expert. He'll play anyone in two, three or four minutes and probably win. During the games he recites tales of his wide travels throughout the world.

Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., was founded on May 16, 1823. It is the second oldest college in the state.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Think carefully about shouldering new responsibilities. Even if you are willing, be certain you can share certain present duties with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Watch emotions carefully now. Don't let sudden enthusiasms carry you away to a point where they actually become obsessions.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): There may be a catch to a certain financial proposition made now. You'd do well to take the advice of an expert in such lines.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Postpone a trip if possible. Travel is not under the best of influences right now.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Your lucky day! Like a "bolt from the blue," you may receive an unexpected windfall in the afternoon.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A chance to push your interests. Others can be won around to your way of thinking easily and willingly now.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): A more or less routine day, but some slightly unconventional and off-beat activities during the evening hours could be fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Your innate aggressiveness and self-will could be liabilities now. Certain associates will be oversensitive; will resent interference of any kind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Jupiter restrictions lift. A favorable report now gives you the "green light" to go ahead with important plans, decisions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A good day for dealing with superiors, with persons in authority generally. Any or all should be receptive to your ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Stimulating influences heighten your ambitions and energies, but don't overtax your energies. Delegate some work to associates.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Your intuition is one of the strongest in the zodiacal spectrum. If you get a hunch now, act on it. Stars are on your side.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a keen and analytical mind; have strong will power and enormous reserve energy. You have a magnetic personality and your versatility is so outstanding that, properly educated, of course, there is practically no field of endeavor at which you could not succeed. You would do extremely well in banking, science (especially chemistry or medicine) or writing. You could also excel in music or on the stage. The deeply idealistic and humanitarian side of your nature also fits you for the religious life or for any occupation which involves the welfare of the underprivileged. Birthdate of: Cardinal Newman, Eng. clergyman, writer; W.H. Auden, famed poet.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Even though he gave television "The Dating Game" nine years ago, Chuck Barris isn't all bad. For one thing, he doesn't wear ties, which in my book automatically makes him a good citizen.

For another, he's working on his second novel, "The Game Show," in which he says the hero, a TV game-show packager, finds "a good way to boost his ratings by killing contestants on the air."

Some might say this is what eventually happens to the mind of a 44-year-old Philadelphian — I have reference to Barris — who is one of Hollywood's most successful developers of TV game shows.

But he just grins and denies it. "I'm just trying to write a book of the absurd with television in mind," he says, adding that he's not out to commit an expose of the game-show business or anything like that.

"I don't want to crusade," he says. "I just want to do a book that's entertaining and show just how crazy network television is."

Barris, a short, soft-spoken millionaire who appears the sort of guy who laughs because he suspects the world is mad, said he's been on a sabbatical from TV since September to promote his first novel.

It's called "You and Me, Babe," and is sort of a game-show "Love Story" except that the rich heroine doesn't die at the end. She only leaves the hero, an unsuccessful novelist who strikes it rich in the gameshow business.

It is what critics call a "thinly disguised autobiography."

The labor occurred in the south of France in 1971. Barris still thinks of the period as "maybe the best four or five months of my life."

In coming months, he said, he'll work on a motion picture version of the book. But he's going at it like the experienced producer he is, not like the starry-eyed first novelist he is.

In short, none of his own personal loot will be in the picture.

"That's a very emotional thing to do," he said. "Some say, 'Well, if we don't get a studio to do it, we have millions of dollars in the company, and we'll produce it ourselves.'"

"I say the hell with that. That's the worst, when you get so emotionally involved. I think that's the greatest reason for failure in Hollywood."

Last Attraction

TORONTO (AP) — While the Yonge Street Mall has been dismantled after the summer, one attraction remains. On one corner sits Joe Smolij, a speed chess expert. He'll play anyone in two, three or four minutes and probably win. During the games he recites tales of his wide travels throughout the world.

Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., was founded on May 16, 1823. It is the second oldest college in the state.

William Chandler has been notified by the editor of School Arts Magazine that nine of his students will have pieces of art work featured in the publication.

Annually, School Arts Magazine sponsors "Showcase", an exhibition of selected art work for student in art classes from preschool through college.

To be featured in the publication will be work done by two seventh graders. One entry is a paper weaving done by Marsha Snodgrass.

Two eighth graders are also featured in the publication. Bret Starkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Starkey, Route 1, Kingston, created a ceramic mask in the form of a self-portrait.

In addition to Bret's mask, a glue print by Kerry Ater, also an eighth grader, will be featured.

Danny Stevens, a sophomore and art II student has had two pieces of his work selected. The first is a batik done in values of black and white.

A joint venture of two sophomore art I students was also appreciated by the selections committee. Gina Henn and Tammy Green created an environmental sculpture containing two life-sized self-portraits engaged in a game of "patty cake".

Alan Pine, a junior at the Logan Elm High School, combined clay, wood, fur, leather and animal teeth to create an African-inspired ceremonial mask form.

Applying the 19th century pointillist technique in a contemporary manner to form a facial image won the praise of School Arts Magazine for Ronnie Stevens.

School Arts Magazine is published by Davis Publications of Baltimore, Md. and is distributed internationally ten months of the year.

Inflation Worst Since 1951 Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that inflation in the closing three months of 1973 was even worse than earlier estimates, rising at an annual rate of 8.8 per cent.

This was the worst rate of inflation in 22 years—since the 13 per cent increase in the first quarter of 1951.

The government also reported that real growth of the economy in the fourth quarter of 1973 was 1.6 per cent, an increase over the preliminary estimate of 1.3 per cent.

The figures were contained in the Commerce Department's revised report on the Gross National Product, a measure of the total output of goods and services in the nation last year.

The revised report said that for all of 1973, real economic growth was 5.9 per cent and inflationary growth was 5.4 per cent. Last month's preliminary report had placed real growth at 5.9 per cent but it estimated inflationary growth at 5.3 per cent.

The preliminary report had estimated the inflation rate in the fourth quarter at 7.9 per cent but this was revised upward in today's report to the whopping 8.8 per cent.

The Nixon administration is projecting a 7 per cent inflation rate for 1974, with a high rate in the first part of the year and a lower rate in the second half.

The Commerce Department said the over-all Gross National Product, including both real and inflationary growth, rose $33 billion to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,337.5 billion in the fourth quarter.

It said the major reasons for the revisions in the GNP figures was an increase of $4.8 billion in net exports and a net increase of $2.1 billion in inventory investment, over the preliminary figures.

The report also indicated that Americans were saving more and spending less in the fourth quarter, with after-tax personal income increasing $26.7 billion and personal spending only $10.7 billion.

William Chandler has been notified by the editor of School Arts Magazine that nine of his students will have pieces of art work featured in the publication. Chandler is the art instructor for Logan Elm High School and the George McDowell Exchange School.

Annually, School Arts Magazine sponsors "Showcase", an exhibition of selected art work for student in art classes from preschool through college.

To be featured in the publication will be work done by two seventh graders. One entry is a paper weaving done by Marsha Snodgrass. Marsha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Snodgrass, Route 1, Kingston. The second seventh grader to be recognized is Teresa Hupp with a ceramic textural slab finished with an earthen stain. Teresa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hupp, Route 1, Laurelville.

Two eighth graders are also featured in the publication. Bret Starkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Starkey, Route 1, Kingston, created a ceramic mask in the form of a self-portrait. Bret's mask is finished in a simulated Raku fashion and mounted on a piece of weathered wood. The irregular bottom edge of the board simulates chinrough, a common characteristic of African-inspired art.

In addition to Bret's mask, a glue print by Kerry Ater, also an eighth grader, will be featured. Kerry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ater, Route 5.

Danny Stevens, a sophomore and art II student has had two pieces of his work selected. The first is a batik done in values of black and white. Danny's batik measures three feet by four feet and utilizes a facial image in profile. The other work is a hand-built ceramic pot. The pot stands 22 inches high and organizes organic appliques into a focal point encircling the bottom half of the form. Danny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stevens, Route 5.

A joint venture of two sophomore art I students was also appreciated by the selections committee. Gina Henn and Tammy Green created an environmental sculpture containing two life-sized self-portraits engaged in a game of "patty cake". Tammy is the daughter of Mrs. Donna Green, Route 4. Gina is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henn, Route 5, Oak Park.

Alan Pine, a junior at the Logan Elm High School, combined clay, wood, fur, leather and animal teeth to create an African-inspired ceremonial mask form. Alan's mask measures six feet in length. He is an art II student and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pine, Route 4.

Applying the 19th century pointillist technique in a contemporary manner to form a facial image won the praise of School Arts Magazine for Ronnie Stevens, Ronnie is a senior at Logan Elm and is in the Art II class. His drawing is done in black and white and measures two feet by two and one half feet in dimension. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Stevens, Tarlton.
